LEBANON VALLEY BEGINS FORTY-SIXTH YEAR

Majority of Old Students Return—Many Arrive Monday and Tuesday Last

With the beginning of last week the students began to arrive for the forty-sixth session of Lebanon Valley College. Some came on the late trains Monday, while the majority came on Tuesday and Wednesday. Every train was met by a crowd of happy and enthusiastic young people to greet their former school-mates and to welcome the newcomers.

The Outlook

Lebanon Valley College has once more opened her doors to receive back to her halls the band of young folks who left at the close of the last college year. It was a happy enthusiastic crowd that assembled and the hearty greetings, the friendly hand clasp and the expression of good-will, gave indication of the comradeship that exists among the sons and daughters of L. V. C. But there were also some faces which were not familiar for many among that throng had never before been among us, but these too received a hearty welcome and were made to feel that they are among friends and kindred spirits and long e'er this "Lebanon Valley" has become home to them.

The number of these strangers among us exceeds that of any previous year. The Freshman Class gives promise of great things. The Academy and the other departments of the College are also opening with prospects that have never been surpassed.

Many things have been done by the college to add to the comfort and convenience of the students. All the buildings have been equipped with new tungsten electric lights, and new water pipes have been laid in order to obtain sufficient pressure to raise the water to the third floor of the various buildings at all times.

Practically all the rooms in both the dormitories are assigned. This is the first time in a great many years that the girl's dormitory has been filled. Also the dining room is filled to its full capacity, and altogether there is a feeling prevalent that Lebanon Valley College is at the threshold of the greatest year in her history.

In an interview with the treasurer the writer finds that another greatly needed improvement is to be made. It is the renovating of our athletic field. The grandstand will be repaired, the fence rebuilt, and a running track will be constructed.

A fund is being raised by means of subscriptions. The treasurer, W. H. Weaver, will gratefully receive contributions from all friends of the college.

Work will be started on the field this week.

Opening Day at L. V. C.

The forty-sixth opening of Lebanon Valley College was celebrated Wednesday, Sept. 13, with chapel exercises at 8:45 o'clock, in the Engle Conservatory of Music. The chapel attendance was one of the largest in the history of this school. President Lawrence Keister gave the opening address of welcome in which he brought out the value of selecting a good college course and following the same to completion.

Foot Ball Prospects

With the opening of the new school year comes a revival of the great college sport—football. The prospects at Lebanon Valley are very encouraging. Although we lost several good men by graduation we have some very promising new material to be developed.

Manager Butterwick is doing all in his power to insure a successful season. The most substantial manner in which the student body can help along a successful season is to pay their athletic fees. We all know that no project can be carried through without money, so get busy fellow students and let us see the money roll in. George Williams, treasurer of the Athletic association will gratefully receive your fees at any time.

The manager has secured the services of Henry, otherwise "Stubby" Wilder, to coach the team. It is unnecessary to say, in this article, that he is a good and competent coach. Mr. Wilder has coached here in former years and has always developed winning teams. He has also coached successfully at Dickinson College for several years.

The schedule: — September 23, Indians at Carlisle; Sept. 27, Lehigh at South Bethlehem; Oct. 7, Delaware at Newark, Del.; Oct. 14, Indian Seconds at Annville; Oct. 21, St.

Editorial

Why is the "College News" like a Woman? Because all L. V. C. men should have one of his own, and not run after his neighbors.

Now is the time to Subscribe, Are you a subscriber of the College News? If not, why not?

The work of the college year has begun and the "NEWS" is not to be out of harmony with the remainder of things. Therefore the Editorial Staff greets the friends and students of Lebanon Valley College in this the first issue.

Now that vacation is over and we are back in the ranks of the college students it is our duty to make the most of our opportunities. The work incident to a college course is not only a mere grinding over textbooks at night and a repetition or application of the new information thus obtained the next day, but there are more varied and important considerations besides. To the new students who are strangers among us we extend a hearty welcome and invite them to join earnestly in all our college activities. There are opportunities for each to excel in some one phase of college work. Athletics, the Christian Associations, the Literary Societies, and Academic

Work will engage your attention and time. What we desire, above everything else is the student who can make good with his books and at the same time be an influence in all college functions and activities, giving a part of his time to the promotion of the welfare of his college.

Lebanon Valley seems to be about to have the most prosperous year in its history. There are many new faces to take the place of those whose absence we lament. New interest in the college is in evidence. Financially the college is in good shape. The athletic field and grandstand are to be repaired, the heating plant is being overhauled, sufficient water pressure in all buildings is no longer fiction, and new tungsten lights illuminate its buildings.

Rev. W. H. Weaver assumes the office of college treasurer, and President Kiester will soon take the field in the interest of students, finances, especially money with which to give us that much needed gymnasium. We hope all efforts will give us the greatest year in Lebanon Valley's history.

OPENING DAY

Others seated on the rostrum were Dr. A. B. Statton, president of Board of Trustees; Rev. I. E. Runk, of Boas Street Church, Harrisburg; Prof. C. C. Peters, Prof. H. E. Spessard, and Chas. Lee, of Albert Academy, Africa, who brought greetings to this school from his own.

The incoming Freshman Class is one of the largest that has come into this institution. They have come to us from the best high schools and academies of the state and many are honor graduates of the same schools. With these prospects we look forward to one of the most prosperous years in this school's history.

The day was spent mostly in matriculating and getting in readiness for work in the different departments of the school.

Miss Adams spent her vacation at Emerson College, Boston, taking a special course in oratory.

What 1911 is Doing

It will be of much interest to the students and friends of the college to learn of the present location of the class of 1911. The "College News" wishes to congratulate the members of the class and give them its best wishes for success during the year. The list is as follows:

Earle A. Spessard is teaching in the High School at Aurora, Ill.

Lester Spessard has an office position in Coalinga, Cal.

W. A. Brunner is teaching in York High School.

A. O. Kauffman is assistant principal in the Red Lion High School.

Ed. Marshall will enter the University of Pennsylvania to take a course in medicine.

R. B. Saylor is teaching in the Science department of Lebanon High School.

W. O. Ellis is an instructor in Iowa State.

John K. Lehman is a teacher in the High School at Red Oak, Iowa.

Samuel Zeigler, P. R. Koontz, W. C. Shoop and P. M. Holdeman have entered Bonebrake Theological Seminary.

O. T. Ehrhart is pastor of the U. B. Church at Hebron, Pa.

F. R. Kennedy is engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in Ducktown, Tenn.

F. L. Frost is principal of High School at Honeybrook, of West Chester Township, Pa.

Y. M. C. A.

The first regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held Sunday afternoon at one o'clock. The meeting was led by Samuel O. Grimm, president of the association. He spoke upon the phases of "Christian Work" that fall to a student's lot during his first and subsequent years at college. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and there was present a record audience including a dozen of our new students. The various lines of Christian Work in College were presented very briefly by C. F. Harnish '12, G. A. Richie '13, Warren Hayes '14, and D. E. Young '14. The attendance, interest, and spirit of the meeting indicate a very hopeful year for the Association.

Next Sunday's meeting will be conducted by the membership committee, C. F. Harnish, chairman.

The Faculty 1911-12

A few changes in the faculty are to be noted this year.

Prof C. C. Peters, of the class of '05, becomes Professor of Philosophy and Education, and Dean of the faculty. For several years Prof. Peters occupied a similar position at Westfield College, Westfield, Ill. He received his Master's degree at Harvard, where he attained no little distinction along the line of philosophy.

Miss Johnson will this year occupy the chair of English and that of preceptress in the Ladies' Dormitory. Miss Johnson comes very highly recommended. Her home is at Marion, Ga., and is a graduate of Women's College, Columbus, and received her Master's degree from Columbia University.

Harriet L. Marble who is a graduate of the Damrosch Conservatory, N. Y. has charge of the department of voice.

Mr. George Ellas Wisewell who will teach Latin and French this year at Lebanon Valley College, was graduated from Hamilton College, in the class of 1904. Since graduation he has taught at the Lake Placid School, spent one year in European travel and three years in post-graduate work at the Johns Hopkins University, from which he received the degree A. M. in June.

Miss Lucy S. Seltzer '10, after spending the summer at Columbia University becomes Professor of German.

Professors Lehman, Shenk, Derickson, Wanner, Schroyer, Prof and Mrs. Sheldon and Miss Adams remain.

FALL RECEPTION

Christian Associations Entertain New Students

The annual reception to new students given by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. was held in the ladies' parlor on Saturday evening, Sept., 16.

The reception was one of the largest in many years. Appropriate addresses were delivered by President Keister and the new Dean, C. C. Peters. After the addresses were given, refreshments were served and then each class gave appropriate class and college yells.

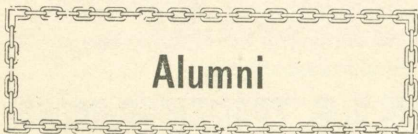

The next reception of this nature will be given at the opening of the Spring term.

Y. W. C. A.

The first meeting of the school year was in charge of our president. For the benefit of the new girls she gave a splendid talk on "What is the Y. W. C. A." She dwelt on the benefits derived from it, our obligations to it, and above all our striving for the mark, which she set for us, "Efficiency." What the Y. W. C. A. has meant to us was the main thought of most of the personal remarks given by the members. The meeting was inspiring and beneficial to all. The attendance was pleasing.

Y. W. C. A. Receptions

A very delightful informal reception was held in Clio Hall on Friday evening by the Young Women's Christian Association in honor of the new girls who entered college this year. Games of various kinds were indulged in. Misses Gingrich and Brightbill added much to the enjoyment of the evening by rendering several beautiful solos and readings. Homemade candy was served.

LEBANON VALLEY DEFEATED BY INDIANS IN OPENING GAME OF THE FOOT BALL SEASON

In a one-sided game on Saturday the Carlisle Indians defeated Lebanon Valley, 53-0. It is said that the Indians have the greatest football team that ever represented the school. They outweighed our team twenty pounds to the man. Considering that fact, and the game put up by our boys, it was a good one. Many spectacular plays were made. We came through the battle unscarred, with but one exception Morrison twisted his ankle during the first few minutes of play. The Indians scored twenty-two points in the first quarter, ten in the second, eleven in the third and ten in the fourth.

The individual as well as the team work was exceptionally brilliant on the part of L. V. Larew played a great game at quarter. Witmyer at half back also played a fine game. Hayes is putting up his usual good game at end. Kreider starred at half-back. Too much cannot be said of the individual playing.

The student body can well be optimistic on the balance of the season. Coach Wilder will develop a light but exceptionally fast team.

Coach Warner of Carlisle says that this will be one of the best teams that ever represented Lebanon Valley. Cheer up fellow-students and do not let the first defeat of the season discourage you—there is a brighter time coming.

FOOTBALL FANCIES

First defeat.

It wasn't our fault.

There is some very promising material here.

We'll have better luck next time.

Morrison is confined to his room with a slightly twisted ankle.

"Doc" Walter promises to develop into a fast centre. His passing at Carlisle was almost perfect.

Manager Butterwick went to Danville to get a "punt" He will come here with good references.

We play Lehigh on Wednesday the 27th. The boys will give them a run for their money.

Students Volunteer Movement

Mr. Harry W. Worley, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and Boston University, School of Theology, and now traveling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement will be at Lebanon Valley October 1 and 2nd in the interests of the movement.

He has had a rich and varied experience, and we consider ourselves fortunate in securing a visit from him.

U. B. Reception

On Saturday evening, the members of the United Brethren Church tendered a very delightful reception to the college students. The church was decorated for the occasion with plants and college pennants. An interesting program was rendered. The pastor, Rev. H. B. Spayd, Mr. S. B. Graybil and Prof. H. E. Spessard in addresses full of good will and cordiality welcomed the students to the various organizations of the church. A fitting response from the college was made by Miss Edna Yarkers. The program was interspersed by entertaining music numbers. At the conclusion of the program, everyone retired to the Sunday School room where refreshments were served.

A Little Excitement

Chapel service was made interesting this morning by the Sophomores escorting into chapel, one of the members of the Freshman Class draped in the "Appropriate Color." The religious services were conducted in the same order however, and nothing was doing until the exercises were over. The two classes met on the campus in front of the chapel and gave vent to their feelings by the use of their fists. The scrap was an interesting one but was soon brought to a close by the upper class men owing to the fact that on Wednesday we have a hard game of football scheduled with Lehigh and several of the participants in the scrap were varsity men. We look for a continuation of the scrap at some future date.

Editorial

Were you surprised at the result of our game with the Indians on Saturday? We were not. We knew our team would do its best and it did. The boys, however, were handicapped in several ways, namely, in that the team was very light to go against a strong team like that of the Indians, also the "powers that be" did not see fit to give us a training table before the hardest game on our schedule, and the lack of a gymnasium in which they might have received special training from the coach and assistants.

The men who scout for new students for our school when asked why they could not "land" a certain athlete will invariably answer, that when the prospective student questioned him concerning athletics and the gymnasium he would have to answer with a blush of shame that we are lacking in that department, and the result followed that the man went to the school where he could receive the desired training along those lines.

We cannot have a winning team in any form of athletics until we get some strong athletes and we cannot get these athletes until we get something here which will attract them, namely a gymnasium. This department of the school has been neglected for many years. We cannot understand why this deficiency should be allowed to exist for it is one of the most important factors in a student's education. The present day method of education is not to fill the brain to overflowing with knowledge but to educate and strengthen the physical as well as the mental side of man. What is an education worth if there is no good strong body to back it? We have sufficient examples of that very thing here in our midst. Had we compulsory gymnastic exercises this would hardly be the case.

Schools much inferior in size and standing to ours can boast of a gymnasium and we have to shame facedly admit that conditions are such that no person has taken sufficient interest in us to bring that much needed article into existence. We had bright prospects for one many years ago, but those prospects have lost their brightness.

Prof. Baish Married

Prof. H. H. Baish, '00, superintendent of the public schools of Altoona, and Miss Ruth Elder, of the same place, were united in marriage June 21, 1911, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Jessie C. Elder. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate relatives and most intimate friends of the bride and groom being in attendance. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. L. Bawby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by the Rev. W. S. Wilson, pastor of the First U. B. church.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, after which there was an informal reception, and Prof and Mrs. Baish left for an extended tour of the British Isles.

Prof. Baish, who was recently re-elected to his second term as superintendent of the city's schools, is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College and one of the most widely known educators of the state. His bride is a graduate of the Altoona High School and an accomplished and popular young lady.

Lebanon High 27 -- L. V. Seconds 0

The scrubs went to Lebanon on Saturday afternoon where they met the High School team of that place. They lost by the score of 27-0. Considering the lack of practice the team put up a good game. The game was interesting throughout. Many exciting plays were made. With more practice a fast second team will be developed.

Line up:

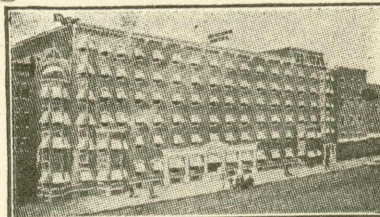

L. H. S.	Positions	Scrubs
Zellers	left end	Long
Blessing	left tackle	A. Metzger
Patschke	Guard	Becker
Snyder	Center	C. Metzger
Killian	right guard	Shearer
H. Light	right tackle	Reddick
Harvard	right end	McNelly
Bowman	quarter back	Richie
Lehman	left half back	Denlinger
E. Light	right half back	Herr
Gantz	full back	Weidler

Touchdowns, 3 Light 4; Gantz, goals from touchdowns, Snyder 2, Referee, Matthews; umpire, Spangler; field judge, Balsbaugh; head linesman, Saylor. Time of quarter, 10 minutes.

The regular meeting Sunday afternoon was conducted by the membership committee, C. F. Harnish chairman. The hour was devoted to the presentation of the need for membership in the association. The ideals for the year were informally discussed, thereby giving encouragement to the committee which has the work in charge.

Only a few men were out, and we regret it very much. Fellow students, your presence is essential at these meetings. If you do not come, you are the loser as well as the rest of us.

Mathematical Round Table

Will hold its first regular meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 P. M. in Prof. Lehman's lecture-room. This organization has been the most active one in the college for several years and it is to be hoped that its effectiveness in the promotion of mathematical knowledge will be increased this year. A very interesting program has been prepared.

Program for Wed. Sept. 27—7 P. M. Do Parallel Lines ever meet? S. O. Grim; Zero in Mathematics, Clara Horn. Prof. Lehman's Reception room.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Miss Dodge was entertained at Prof. Lehman's several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Houser, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with their daughter.

Florence Christeson says that she has turned a new leaf and intends to study henceforth and evermore and "cut out" all foolishness.

Mr. Amos Heindel, of Red Lion visited his daughter the first week of school.

Lebanon Valley Loses to Lehigh

Lehigh swamped Lebanon Valley on Wednesday last by the score 44-0. Although the score was large the coach and management were pleased with the gameness of the boys. Only one accident marred the game. Hensel, the L. V. captain, was retired on account of receiving a bad sprain. He was rendered unconscious for several hours by the blow which struck his head but the attending surgeon soon restored him and he returned to school very little the worse for his experience.

Lehigh greatly outweighed L. V. Their playing surprised all their "rooters" who had not considered it a very strong team. The score by quarters was 16, 11, 12 and 15.

Hardly a minute of the first half had been played when McCafferty scored the first touchdown. An on-side kick by Price to Vela soon after scored the next points, to which a plunge through left tackle added another touchdown.

As the game progressed Lehigh scored less frequently. We have real reason to feel proud of the fighting spirit of our team. Magnificent examples were shown in the last two games. The team continues to improve rapidly. We need have no fear as to the remaining games on the schedule. The line-up:

Lebanon Valley	Positions	Lehigh
Hayes	left end	Vela
Plummer	left tackle	Dayton
Walters	center	Wylie
Long	right guard	Bianco
Hensel (Captain)	right tackle	Cox
Kreider	right end	Bailey
Lerew	quarterback	Price
Strickler	right halfback	McCafferty
Stickle	fullback	Crichton

Score—Lehigh, 44; Lebanon Valley, 0. Touchdown—Flick, 2; Kennedy,

2; McCafferty, 1; Dayton, 1; Vela, 1; Crichton, 1, Goal from touchdown—Dayton, 4. Substitution—Kauffman for Hayes, Statton for Long, Long for Hensel, Heffelfinger for Kauffman, Woods for McCafferty, Goynes for Price, Flick for Kennedy, Cann for Crichton, Dickie for Wylie, Ackery for Knox, Landborn for Bianco, Rouse for Vela, Green for Bailey, Bender for Strickler, Wuchter for Rouse, Martin for Greene, Western for Flick, Wagner for Wuchter, Pazezti for Eyner, Heffelfinger for Walters, Referee—Florida, Stevens Institute. Umpire—Hershey, Stevens Institute. Head linesman—Farabugh, Lehigh. Timekeeper—Black, Lehigh. Linesmen—Vaniskle, Lehigh. Reed, Lebanon Valley. Time of periods—Two 10 minute and two 8 minutes.

The Star Course

The Star Course this year will be one of the strongest booked at this school for some time. We have been able to get five of the best entertainments that the "Redpath Brockway Lyceum Bureau" puts on the road. We advise all persons who wish to take in these entertainments to buy season tickets, for we are confident that you will not go wrong by doing so.

The following are the numbers we have looked for this year.

Nov. 4, Dudley Buck Co.
Nov. 22, Edw. Amherst Ott.
Dec. 14, The Dunbars.
Jan. 10, John F. Chambers.
Apr. 13, Ralph Bingham.

Delaware vs L. V.

On Saturday October 7, Lebanon Valley will journey to Newark Delaware, where they will meet the strong Delaware College team. A good game is expected. The boys hope to bring home the laurels of victory. Everyone should go out to see them off.

Calendar.

Tuesday, Oct. 3, 6 p. m.—Prayer meeting.

Friday, Oct. 6, 7:15—Societies.

Saturday, Oct. 7—Lebanon Valley vs. Delaware. at Newark, Delaware.

Sunday, Oct. 8, 1 p. m.—Christian Associations.

The Glee Club

The preliminary test of the men's voices for the glee club proved very satisfactory, and Professor Sheldon says that the prospects are that it will be a "hummer." There is sufficient material for a strong organization, quite a number of voices which with a little training will make good. Professor Sheldon proposes to have a club of twenty voices, and these have already been obtained all excepting one first tenor. There is a great deal of enthusiasm among the boys and indications are that we will have a glee club which will be a credit to the college.

This week the ladies' voices will be tested and it is probable that there will be a ladies' glee club also.

These two organizations will mean a great deal for the college, for as an advertising agency a glee club is one of the best things that a college can have. "There is only one thing that is better than a glee club, that is two glee clubs."

Mathematical Round Table

The first meeting of this organization was held Wednesday evening, Sept. 27, 1911. The following program was ably rendered: Do parallel lines ever meet?, S. O. Grimm; Zero in Mathematics, Clara K. Horn. Each topic was followed by an interesting discussion. The program for the next meeting has been posted and an equally interesting meeting is promised. All members are urged to be present. Visitors are cordially invited to attend.

Editorial

Friends, help us make this paper the best possible. Send your criticisms or suggestions direct to us. Send us the news that ought to appear in its pages, and of which we are not aware.

In a prospectus, of this year's work we find before us a few matters which are not altogether agreeable and, which we feel, might be better if the proper attention and energy were directed to them. The fact that such matters have existed for some years past is already well-known to most of us, and we pass our judgment thus, that it is not particularly humiliating to those now in charge that such inconveniences have existed, but that they should be permitted to remain as such, when but a little more than the ordinary time and work will suffice to correct the difficulty.

It has often been said that if any knowledge is to be useful it must be properly classified and placed in such order that it will be available at short notice; and that lacking knowledge, the next best thing is to know where to find it. Therefore we feel that the knowledge equivalent of our library must be very small indeed for who has not trod his way hence many a time with the best intentions to do some solid reference work or to solve the mysteries of some knotty problem, only to find there the books in the most confused condition, many of them out and of which the librarians have no record? Have we not often wandered hence and found a certain lot of books piled promiscuously upon the floor upstairs where they were placed almost a year ago? Have we not come away in disgust after many ineffectual attempts at locating the particular volume we wanted and of whose presence in the library we are assured? Is it any wonder so many of us make little or no use of the library? The library is a decidedly neglected part of our equipment and we are only too sorry that it should be so. The library has no attraction for the busy college student for there he must spend more time to find the book or periodical he wants than it does to assimilate its contents, but it is, however, a splendid place to cultivate the faculty of perseverance but that so seldom is the precise thing we are after.

We believe that our library could be put into the proper shape to give the maximum service at a comparatively small cost. Why not engage a few of our students who shall spend a few hours every day there in reading, classifying, and organizing the material available. There are books upon our shelves that are not listed, and many that are listed that are not there. Students, knowing only too well the utter lack of system, remove the volumes from the shelves and fail to return them. Such a condition should not be permitted to remain. The labor of a few students for a few hours each week throughout the year, provided they were supplied with the necessary equipment, should suffice to catalogue and arrange our volumes and periodicals in such a way that our library would more nearly approach the ideal purpose of a library instead of being of comparatively little use.

New Football man Arrives

Snively the new fullback arrived last week. He is a good punter and bids fair to make good. His work thus far has been of the highest order. Snively comes to us with the best references.

Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. Joint Session

The missionary committee had charge of the first joint session of this school year. Mr. Harry Worley, who represents the Student Volunteer movement made the address. He urged upon us the importance of definite Christian work and pointed out to us many open fields for service. China, especially, should claim our attention at present. Many were helped by this meeting and especially, the missionary committees received new impetus to make their work this winter a success. Sara Zimmerman spoke on "The Value of Mission Study." Several enjoyable music numbers were rendered. As a result of this meeting a new missionary spirit was kindled.

Football Fancies

Hard luck.

The big games are over.

Now for the lesser teams that are in our class.

Many star plays were made at Lehigh.

We need twenty five men out every night.

The time is drawing near for our first home game. Learn the yells and songs. Let us have a little system to our cheering. Cheering is half the game.

Girl's Basket Ball

The girls of the school are all quite enthusiastic over the prospect of a girls' basketball team. Miss Johnson has kindly consented to coach the girls and they expect to begin practice in a few days. One of the old tennis courts, now covered with weeds will be cleaned and rolled, baskets will be put up and this will be used during the fall term.

All of the girls are expected to come out and do all in their power to make this move a success.

L. V. Scrubs 6--Hummelstown
H. S. O.

The Lebanon Valley Second team journeyed to Hummelstown on Saturday where they defeated the High School of that place by the score of 6-0. It was a fast and exciting game. Neither side was able to score until the last few minutes in the last quarter when Hayes of L. V. covered a fumble and rushed it across the line for a touchdown. Much good material was shown. With the second team going at their present gait it seems we should see some very lively practice games on our own gridiron. The line up:

L. V.		Hummelstown
Hoffer Metzgar	left guard	Shultz
C. Metzgar	centre	Wenrich
Groh	right guard	N. Miller

M. Long	quarterback	Haehnlen
Hayes	left halfback	C. Miller
Denlinger	right halfback	J. Bordner
Snively	fullback	Holsberg

James Balthausen spent Saturday among friends here at school.

Student Volunteers

As one of the direct results of Secretary Worley's visit at Lebanon Valley College, a Volunteer Band has been organized. Although as yet the Band consists of only three members they are expecting to do great things for the Kingdom of God, and it is confidently expected that before the end of the school year many more will volunteer to become missionaries of the Cross to foreign countries

Items of Interest

The class of 1912 regrets very much the loss of Miss Catherine E. Hershey, department editor of the "News." Miss Hershey has gone to the University of Wisconsin. Mr. J. C. Shively's failure to return is likewise a regretful loss. Mr. Shively goes to Princeton University. And the class of 1913 lost from its membership A. H. Weigel, who goes to Ann Arbor, University of Michigan, and Paul and Earl Loser who go to Muhlenberg College, Allentown.

The "Reporter" made a business trip to his home in Carlisle the beginning of last week.

Paul Loser, ex, '13, stopped off enroute to Allentown from Carlisle to visit some of his friends here at school.

C. Wenzel Mills, ex-conservatory, now of New York City, was renewing old acquaintances over Saturday.

ATHLETICS

Delaware 24--L. V. 0

Lebanon Valley lost its third successive game of the season to Delaware on Saturday by the score 24 to 0. During the first half of the game Lebanon Valley outplayed Delaware, and repeatedly held them for downs.

The first quarter was a seesaw between the two teams, but in the second quarter Delaware took a brace and by a series of rushes and forward passes Taylor crossed the line, but Hamel failed to kick the goal and the quarter ended with a score of 5 to 0. Lebanon Valley kicked off to Delaware in the third. Ennis carried the ball 20 yards on an end run, and then Taylor advanced the ball 30 yards for a touchdown, Hamel kicked the goal.

Score, 11 to 0.

In the last quarter. Foulk received a forward pass and gained 30 yards. Taylor then advanced 15 yards, where Delaware was forced to kick. Houston regained the ball on the 3-yard line, but Delaware lost it on downs.

Here Delaware scored a safety. Soon after Houston scored a touchdown from the 18-yard line, but Hamel failed to kick the goal. Lebanon Valley kicked to Delaware and was held for downs. On an attempted forward pass by Lebanon Valley, Houston got the ball and ran 75 yards for a touchdown. Hamel again kicked the goal and the game ended. Score, 24 to 0. The line up:

Lebanon Valley	Delaware
Hayes	L. E. S. Loomis, (Murray)
Plummer	L. T. Todd, (Kelly)
Eyni	L. G. E. Loomis, (Dean)
Walter	C. Attix
Statton	R. G. Millington, (Lauk)
Hensel	R. T. Hamel
Bender	R. E. Foulk
Lerew	Q. B. Houston
Snively	L. H. B. Cann Harvey
Strickler	R. H. B. Ennis
Kreider	F. B. Taylor, Gawn

Touchdowns—Taylor 2; Houston 2. Goals from touchdowns—Hamel, 2. Safety, Delaware. Referee—Mahony, Yale Umpire — Weyounth, Pennsylvania. Time of quarters—10 minutes.

Scrubs 0--Hummelstown 0

The Varsity Scrubs held Hummelstown High School to a 0-0 score on Saturday. Although greatly outweighed, the Scrubs put up a magnificent game. They kept the ball continually in Hummelstown territory.

Bordner was the visitors sole star. Ritchie, Albert and Charlton played a great game for the Scrubs. The tackling of McNelly was a feature. Many long gains were made by means of the forward pass. The line up:

L. V. Scrubs	Hummelstown
Albert	L. E. Shultz
Kauffman	L. T. Miller
Groh	L. G. Fasnacht
C. Mezgar	C. Weirich
Hoffer	R. G. Holsberry
Charlton	R. T. E. Slusser
Harnish	R. E. Brady
Richie	Q. B. Haenlen
Long	L. H. B. Nangle
A. Metzgar	R. H. B. J. Bordner
Denlinger	F. B. O. Bordner.

Refree—Carmany, Lebanon Valley. Umpire — Smith, Lebanon. Field Judge — Strickler, Hummelstown. Linesmen—Mowery, Shannon.

Basket Ball

From all appearances Lebanon Valley will be represented this year by two basket ball teams—Girls and Boys. The tennis court has been weeded and the goals are soon to be put up so the different teams may begin practice at once. Miss Johnson has kindly consented to coach and manage the girls team. The boys manager is J. F. Reed. Several schools and colleges have written for games and from the present outlook we will be represented by a first class team.

There is an abundance of material at Lebanon Valley so let everyone help along a good season.

Indians Scrubs vs. L. V.

On Saturday October 14, we will have our first opportunity to see the football team in action. The Indian Scrubs will be the attraction offered. The boys are practicing hard for this game. The Indians will bring a strong team with them and it will mean hard, consistent work to beat them. Let every body be out to see the boys.

Public Mass Meetings

During the past week a number of mass meetings of all of our students were held in the Conservatory for the purpose of arousing spirit in our athletic work. Manager Butterwick felt that he needed a more sympathetic student body to encourage his team to do its utmost in behalf of the college. As many as could be persuaded to come to these meetings were addressed by Manager Butterwick and Baseball Manager C. C. Smith who endeavored to raise enough interest in athletics to successfully carry the football season to a close with a sufficient reserve to make the base ball season an unqualified success. Other addresses were given by those interested in the cause.

Preparation for our home games was made by an extended practice of our college songs and yells. Remember these points emphasized at these meetings.

1. Do not let your interest in athletics fade away, having enthusiasm, make it manifest by really doing something helpful to the team.

2. Pay your fees so as not to hold up the season financially.

3. Be on hand when there is a game on our local grounds; your presence and "rooting" is decidedly helpful.

There will be a series of mass meetings beginning Wednesday evening at six o'clock and each evening

Editorial

The new rules governing absences from class at first glance seem rather stringent, and already a great deal of thoughtless criticism has been heard among the students, emanating, of course, from those who have not given the matter proper consideration. It should be remembered that the faculty expect to adopt an additional clause to the rules which will modify their stringency to some extent, and until we know just what those modifications are it will be just as well, perhaps, not to criticize the action of the faculty too harshly.

No one who is familiar with the conditions at this institution, doubts in the least that it was absolutely necessary for the faculty to adopt some new rules regarding students' absences from classes, and further, that some provision should be made for the enforcing of these rules, and conditions prevailing here thus far would indicate that those measures need to be pretty severe. On the other hand it is self evident that a set of rules which are not so severe, but enforced to the letter will be eminently more satisfactory for all parties concerned, than a stringent set of rules with an occasional loophole for evasion. It has been our observation at Lebanon

Valley College that the faculty of this institution have never treated a student who is conscientiously trying to do his work, inconsiderately or unjustly. And the man who is eternally expressing the fear that the faculty will in some way impose on him, brands himself as a man who is eternally trying to shirk his duty. Moreover, the man who has not discovered by the end of his freshman year that what we get of real value out of college life is obtained not in a contest between the student and his teachers as to which one can get the advantage of the other, but rather from a sympathetic cooperation between them, had much better go back where God and nature put him and there stay put.

Our faculty are striving to raise the intellectual standard of this institution, they are in duty bound to do so, and we as students expect, in fact demand it of them, and every time they make a move in that direction we "raise a howl." Now we think that we as a student body are fairminded enough to be able to see the inconsistency of such a course. Not that we think that the students should accept without question or comment anything and everything that the faculty decrees, but it is possible to express our opinions in such a way that an outsider who might chance to hear it need not go away under the impression that the faculty need a guardian to watch over them. You are unjust to the faculty, unjust to your college and unjust to yourself when you express a criticism of that kind.

We would not be understood as endorsing unqualifiedly the new rules adopted by the faculty. For instance: it is a physical impossibility for every student to attend every class during the year. As the rules now stand each absence, whatever the reason for the absence, means a deduction of one per cent. from the semester grade. This would be discouraging, to say the least. Of course it would be possible to remove the penalty of one percent. deduction by special examination, but each exam has a little string attached to it with a dollar at the other end. Yet we expect the members of our athletic clubs to go on trips that will take them away from class work for several days at a time. If the teachers so desired they could make these people take an exam. for every recitation that they have missed. Not that we think they would do such a thing, that is why we object to the rule because we do not believe that it is expected to be enforced.

We have faith enough in our faculty to believe that we will eventually have a set of rules that will be perfectly fair to every one. This would be our plea. Give us a set of rules that can be kept and we will help you keep them. In the meantime let us refrain from the expression of unjust criticism of the faculty.

thereafter until Friday. The cheer leader requests that everyone come out to these meetings. Your attendance there shows that you have the athletic teams at heart as well as the school; it gives the team courage and leads it on to greater work. Let everybody be out. If anyone has any new yells to submit the cheer leader will gladly use them.

Ministerial Association Meet

The Student's Ministerial Association of the college met in the room of D. E. Young, Monday October 2. The association was favored with a short address by Mr. H. W. Worley, secretary of the student's volunteer movement, who gave a very interesting talk on the work of the pastor in regards to missions. He emphasized that men are called not only to preach in America, but in the world.

The paper of the evening was read by C. E. Rettew. The subject was "How to Study the Bible." The paper was very interesting and was followed by a general discussion by all present.

The next meeting will be held in G. A. Richie's room, when C. G. White will read a paper on The Pastor in the Home.

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club met on Monday and affected the following organization: Director, Prof. Sheldon; President, Josiah F. Reed; Vice President, Landis Klinger; Secretary, David Young; Treasurer, Thomas Lyter; Librarian Alvin Weaver; Janitor, Howard Peters.

The instructor wishes to thank those who so willingly came out to try for the Glee Club. He was sorry that every one could not make it. In some cases the range of the voice was not sufficient, although in many cases the middle range was good, hence they were not eligible.

The following are the men chosen to make up the club. First Tenor, Gible, Lyter, Rodes, Stengle, Hensel; Second Tenor, Reed, Young, Shearer, Shepley, Olewiler. First Bass, Hayes, Ulrich, Weidler, Weaver, Long; Second Bass, Botts, Klinger, Lowery, Charlton, Peters. Reader J. W. Ischy.

Ladies' Glee Club

The following are the ladies chosen to make up the club. First Soprano, Henidel Gingrich, Kreider, Staufer, Brightbill; Second Soprano, Johnson, Lehman, Kerschner, Light, F. Chrsiteson; First Alto, Myers, O. Bachman, Ely, Zimmerman, Kilmer; Second Alto, Spayd Strickler, L. Spessard, M. Christeson.

AN ENROLLMENT FREE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants, two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment free is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

Freshmen Entertain Themselves

Under contract of an unmolested trip the Freshmen were conveyed to the Waterworks by a local liveryman on Wednesday night where they held their first celebration, but proved very unsociable when the Sophomores decided to pay them a visit later in the evening. The Sophs had to be content with gazing upon the festivities from afar. Both parties were out the greater part of the night each looking for the other, with little success.

Y. W. C. A.

The subject of our meeting was "How is God's image in us kept or lost?" The leader, Miss Edna Kilmer, gave three principle things by which we can preserved his image, prayer, obedience and service. But before all these must be the consecrated life. A life of prayer and of service resulting from fellowship with God was brought out in several talks by the members. The meeting was very helpful.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 17, 1911

No. 5

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Indian Reserves 6; Lebanon Valley 0

Lebanon Valley lost its first home game on Saturday last. It was the band of Indian braves from Carlisle who took our scalp to the tune of 6-0. The game was spectacular from beginning to end. Many long runs were made on both sides. The forward passing of Lebanon Valley was sensational. There were two ten and two eight minute quarters. The Indians did not score until the latter part of the second quarter, when Giroux carried the ball over the line and Wounded Eye kicked the goal.

For Lebanon Valley Lerew and Strickler were the stars. The forward passing of Lerew and his line bucking were features. Burns a new man played a sensational game the short time he was in the game. Walters played a good game and Snavelly at left half-back made several good runs.

In the first quarter L. V. kicked off to the Indians, who speedily carried it down the field. After a few minutes play Burn's was substituted for Bender. He made several good tackles. Charlton was shortly sent in Statton's position. Hensel and one of the Indians were disqualified for roughing it. Beyond considerable roughness and much penalizing the first quarter proved to be without incident. The quarter ended with the ball on Lebanon Valley's twenty yard line. Score 0-0.

In the second quarter L. V. received the ball which they punted to the center of the field. The Indians advanced it to the one yard line where they lost the ball on downs. L. V. punted to the center of the field. Manning was sent in at end replacing Burns who received an ugly cut on the head. The Indians now advanced the ball for a touch-down. Wounded

Eye kicked the goal. L. V. kicked off to Indians, but soon recovered the ball. Lerew passed to Hayes for a gain of twenty yards. Next Lerew gained fifteen yards on a line plunge through center. The quarter and half ended after an incompleated forward pass by Lebanon Valley. Score 6-0.

In the third quarter L. V. kicked to Indians, Charlton was disqualified for rough playing. The Indians tried to work forward passes but were unsuccessful. Lerew made several good tackles in this quarter. It ended with ball in L. V. possession. Score 6-0.

Indians ran ball but fumbled in the fourth period. Walters recovered fumble. Strickler fumbled and the Indians got the ball in the next play. The Indians tried a forward pass but Snavelly got the ball. L. V. advanced the ball by a series of forward passes. It was at this point that Strickler made his forty yard run, but was called back because there were only six men on our scrimmage line.

Two forward passes advanced the ball to the Indians two yard line. With one minute to play Lerew tried another forward pass but it failed. The game ended here. Final score 6-0. The line up:

Lebanon Valley	Indian Reserves
Hayes	L. E. Walette
Plummer	L. T. She Bear
Long	L. G. Big Bear
Walter	C. Smith
Statton(Enir)	R. G. Long Roach
Hensel (Charlton)	R. T. White
Bender	R. E. Wounded Eye
(Burns, Manning)
Lerew	Q. B. Lorenz
Snavelly	L. H. B. Jackson
Strickler	K. H. B. Giroux
Kreider	F. B. Bocker

Touchdown — Giroux. Goal from touchdown Wounded Eye. Refree—Dwyer, Harrisburg. Umpire—Lieut, Barnhart, Lebanon. Field judge—Carnes, Steelton Y. M. C. A. Head linesman—Pautxis U. of P. Time of quarters two tens and two eights.

St. Bonaventure

On Saturday October 21, Lebanon Valley will journey to Olean, N. Y., where they will meet St. Bonaventure college. Little is known of the strength of this college. Last year their team was not exceptionally strong. We can hope for a victory over the New York State team. The team will leave town at 8:08 on Friday morning. Let everybody be out to see the fellows off.

At Conference

The following resolutions were adopted at the Laymen's meeting held on the last day of the United Brethren Conference at Reading, last week. President Keister called the attention of the Conference to the fact that to be successful, Lebanon Valley College must have the support of the laymen of the United Brethren church, and the adoption of the resolutions was the result. As laymen of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ assembled in annual Conference session in the city of Reading, we desire to express our abiding interest in the cause of Christian education.

We believe the time has come when the United Brpthren people should give our Church College the preference, even esteem it the best possible place to educate their sons and daughters.

We value Lebanon Valley College for what it has done and what it is prepared to do year after year and pledge our support in an earnest effort to endow the college in order to maintain the standard of work.

Report at Conference

The enrollment for the year bids fair to equal or excel that of the previous year. The new teachers have given evidence of fine ability and an active interest in the welfare of the college. Two of these replace others, but one is an addition to the faculty much needed and much appreciated. The department of education can now meet the requirements of those who intend to teach.

The debt according to the Treasurer's report March 31, 1911 was $48925.95 a reduction during the year of $13957.45. The bonds can now be purchased and the debt should be reduced as rapidly as possible in order to relieve the college of the heavy burden of interest, this item amounting, last year to $2758.62. Mr. Vernon Rettew, of Harrisburg is arranging to reinsure the property. The estimated deficit of last year was collected during the year so that no new debt was made. The estimated deficit for this year is $4000.

The fourth installment on the first debt effort and the third installment on the second debt effort fall due January 1, 1912. A cheerful response will further reduce the debt which is slowly disappearing.

In order to overcome the annual deficit and in order to meet the condition enacted by the Chief State School officers of the North Central and Western States November 19, 1910 that a college must have at least $200,000, productive endowment to maintain its rank and in order to go forward with the work committed to the church, the work of Christian education, immediate and effective response should be made to the appeal of L. V. C. Five years are allowed in which to compete with this stipulation. Surely every friend of the college will realize the importance of immediate and effective action.

The wheat crop on the Bittering farm proved to be a failure, but there will be some revenue from it and also from the Eberly farm. The objects to which these funds can be appropriated are designated by will. As the Eberly estate is not settled no statement can be made of the amount of the Daniel Eberly fund to be created by investment of the residue.

Two facts need emphasis today. First, the college needs money for current expenses for improvements and especially for a gymnasium. Second, the college is an important if not an essential factor in our denominational life present and future. The Woman's Board paid on the debt during the year $142.00, put new window shades in the Music Hall and improved the stage. These results should encourage the Board and call forth the continued cooperation of the friends of the college.

During the year one check of one hundred dollars was placed in President Kiester's hands without any special solicitation. The personal interest in Lebanon Valley College which promoted this gift should spring up everywhere.

A gymnasium will be built bearing the name of the donor, chairs will be endowed in honor of the living or in memory of the dead and the pulse of our denominational life will beat with new strength and purpose.

Rules Governing Absence From Class

1. For each excused absence from class a deduction of one per cent., and from each unexcused absence a deduction of three per cent., will be made from the semester grade.

2. Excuses for absences caused by sickness will be accepted by the teacher in charge when excuses are signed by the student's physician.

3. Each other excuse shall state the reason for the student's absence. He himself shall sign the excuse and present it to the teacher in charge who will return it to the student when passed upon by the faculty.

4. Interferences are considered excused absences for which satisfactory arrangements must be made in advance with the teacher in charge.

5. All excuses shall be presented on regulation absence blanks which should be kept by the student when signed and returned by the teacher.

6. The penalty provided for in rule, 1, may be removed by a special examination on work prescribed by the teacher. For such examination a fee of one dollar will be charged which fee must be paid in advance. In certain exceptional cases the fee may be remitted by special action of the faculty. The number of absences which may be covered by a single examination is left to the option of the teacher.

7. With persistent absence from classes the faculty will deal as the circumstances obtaining in the particular case may seem to warrant.

Maurice Leister received as a charge, Lebanon circuit consisting of Mt. Etna, Ebenezer and Copendefer.

Items of Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Major are living in Ohio, Mr. Major was a former student here and Mrs. Major was formerly Miss Sallie H. Kreider, of Annville.

Miss Violet Moyer, former voice teacher, is teaching again in the voice department at Hesleyan Female College, Macon, Ga.

Helen Weidler spent the week end at her home in Royalton.

Miss Johnson, Miss Seltzer and Miss Marble were in Harrisburg Saturday attending a grand opera.

Misses Ely and Hammond spent the last week in Hagerstown.

Miss Virginia Miller entertained the senior girls Saturday evening.

E. K. Boughter and F. E. Stengle spent Sunday at their respective homes Oberlin, Pa.

The "old bunch" spent Thursday night taking in "The Girl in the Taxi."

Rev. Chas. Plummer visited his brother Samuel, Sunday and Monday.

Y. W. C. A.

"More than conquerors—the victory over temptation," was the thought for our Sunday meeting. Lottie Spessard the leader, ably treated the subject from the view point of the conquerors. Her main statement was our self-will through prayer. In God's power alone we can entirely overcome. Our temptations at school are many but they can be conquered. All the girls had something to say on this subject, which was very helpful because it applies to our present life.

The Y. M. and Y. W. C. A have decided with the permission of the faculty to present a Shakespearean play this year. The play decided upon is "The Merchant of Venice."

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 24, 1911

No. 6

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE STAR COURSE

PROMISES TO BE BETTER THAN EVER

Five of the Most Expensive Members of Redpath Lyceum Will Appear Before us

But a glance at our star course program will convince you that this year's combination is one of the strongest to be had. All of the business end of the preparation for the course has been completed and within a few days some members of the committee will call upon you to provide you with season tickets. The committee has gone to an exceeding great expense to secure these numbers and we trust you will appreciate their efforts.

The first number of the course is due on November 4, when The Dudley Buck Company will be the attraction. This company was to appear here last year but due to illness of one of the company they were compelled to cancel their engagement with us. We are exceedingly glad to secure them this year. We feel that the company needs no special recommendation.

Edward Amherst Ott, "The Purposeful Orator," and author will appear Nov. 22. Too much cannot be said of this man's ability. He appears in one of four lectures, "Sour Grapes," "The Haunted House," "The Spenders," and "A Fortune for You" or "The Story of a City." One of his lectures alone, in published form, has reached the 25,000 mark.

On December 14, will appear "The Dunbars" whose fame is already known by every one and who need no "boosting" here.

January 10, John F. Chambers will appear in his interpretations of great masterpieces. Without the aid of theatrical effects and make-ups he presents "A Grand Army Man," "The Merchant of Venice," and a "Miscellaneous Program." His programs are humorous yet dignified and elevating. They are entertaining, at the same time instructive.

April 13, comes Ralph Bingham, the entertainer. His is not a lecture, but an evening of song, music and story; an intellectual diversion inducing pleasure and delight, provoking mirth, merriment, laughter. Mr. Bingham has been 30 consecutive years before the public. His is an international reputation as a humorist.

The reserved seat chart will be open at the ticket office in the conservatory three days before each performance from 12:30 to 1:00 p. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m., also on the evening of each entertainment.

St. Bonaventure 5--L. V. 0

On Friday morning last the gridiron defenders of the White and Blue left Annville for Olean New York where they met the strong team representing St. Bonaventure college of that place. Lebanon Valley lost the game by the score of 5 to 0. Spectators were loud in the praise of the White and Blue's fine work. Upon its arrival in Olean the Lebanon Valley team went immediately to their hotel the Olean House, the finest hostelry in the city. After partaking of their evening meal coach Wilder gave them a private talk and then sent them to their rooms where they remained for the night.

Rain had fallen all of Friday night but Saturday dawned bright and clear.

At nine o'clock the team went to the Y. M. C. A. field where a secret signal practice was held behind closed gates, which gave great satisfaction to the coach.

The game was played on the old Fair Ground field which was secured to accommodate the crowd that witnessed the game. It is estimated that over two thousand people were present to view the work of Lebanon Valley. We were Olean's big attraction of the year. The field on which the game was played was in an awful condition. It was full of holes and large stones and the teams played in mud to their ankles.

The game was to have been called at three o'clock and Lebanon Valley was on hand at 2:45. About 3:30 St. Bonaventure appeared. There was some discussion as to the length of the quarters. It was finally decided that fifteen minute quarters would be played. St. Bonaventure had no football so manager Butterwick kindly allowed Lebanon Valley's ball to be used.

Captain Hensel, of Lebanon Valley won the toss and Kreider kicked off to St. Bonaventure. The boys from New York received the ball on their twenty yard line and advanced it to their twenty five yard line. Here St. Bonaventure lost the ball on downs, Lebanon Valley ran the ball down the field. On the third down Lerew tried a forward pass. The throw was accurate and long and Hayes who was just about to receive the pass slipped and fell in the mud. The referee gave the ball to St. Bonaventure where it had fallen instead of returning to the place where it had been put in play. At this stage of the game Strickler was put out. St. Bonaventure scored the only touchdown of the game in the first quarter on a delayed pass when a "St" carried the ball around right end for a touchdown. St. Bonaventure did not register a single first down in this period.

During the last three quarters the play was kept in St. Bonaventure territory on their twenty yard line. Three times Lebanon Valley rushed the ball to the two-yard line; three times Lebanon Valley was there penalized

If you see something good about the college, tell others about it.

Boost the foot ball team. The boys are doing nobly and they still have a chance to bring in a number of Scalps.

If you have any suggestions that will make the College News a better paper, you can make glad the hearts of the editors by telling them about it. If you have any news items that will interest the student body, send them in, we will be glad to publish them.

It is doubtful whether the interclass contests are the best thing that could happen to a college, particularly such contests as the "Tug-of-War," which requires neither science nor skill of any kind! Almost anybody could pull on a rope. And forcing men who are not in any training, and whose muscles are tender and flabby because of lack of exercise, into a contest which the foot ball men who have been on the field every day, were not allowed to enter for fear of being disabled, does not seem very consistent. Why not have contests that mean something.

Conservatory Entertainment

All who attended the entertainment given on Saturday night, by the members of the conservatory, were well pleased with what they heard and saw. The first part of the evening was devoted to a musical program in which each part was excellently rendered. Following this part of the program the people were invited to the second floor where the "Faculty Art Gallery" and the "Schubert Museum" proved two very interesting features. The proceeds of the entertainment will be spent for books for the music department.

Second Call for Funds

Treasurer Weaver, of the college repeats his call for funds to complete the repairs upon our athletic field. Some of the funds have been received but the Treasurer earnestly requests that others who will contribute do so at once so that the work may proceed as rapidly as possible. Those who know the conditions of the field will appreciate the fact that repairs are necessary. Your appreciation of such a need can best be shown by your contribution. Help us repair the bad looking fence and grandstand and to make the other improvements consistent with a growing institution and consistent with a progressive town.

Rev. Samuel G. Ziegler, '11, Weds

At the home of the brides parents at Hanover, Pa., Rev. S. G. Ziegler, of the class of 1911 was united in marriage to Miss Ethel Reddig on Tuesday October 10. We are exceedingly sorry that no particulars of the wedding have reached us, but we wish to extend to the happy couple our most hearty congratulations.

On Sunday morning, October 15 Mr. Ziegler was ordained at the conference held at Baltimore, Md., and the next day the Rev. and Mrs. Ziegler left for Dayton, Ohio, where he will attend Bonebrake Theological Seminary. In behalf of all their friends here at school the "News" extends to them the best of wishes for the future.

for being off-sides when not one man was playing out of position. Let it suffice to say that we played all a round the boys from New York state.

One little sentence will explain the game they put up—they had only three first down in the game.

I feel that I must give a few words of praise to individual players. Each player put up such a grand game that it is hard to pick those who starred.

Lerew played a wonderfully heady and consistent game; Burns diagnosed plays and was always in the thick of the fray. Hensel played a great game and held like a stonewall when the opposing team attacked him. Snaveley's punting was a feature. The work of Plummer and Long at tackle was sensational. This duo blocked several punts and had the majority of the tackles. Charlton at center gave a fine exhibition. He also did some fine tackling and blocking of punts. On the whole it was the best game put up by the team this year. The line although out-weighted fifteen pounds to the man held as if they were linked together with chains.

It would be doing the students great injustice if the officials were not given their share of praise for the part they played in the game. The reader can judge for himself when I say that they were all students at St. Bonaventure with the exception of the referee who was a Dartmouth man. The line up.

The next meeting will be held November 2, at the home of Mark Wert. Rev. I. Moyer Hershey, '04, will speak on "The Minister's Call"

Tug-of-War

The annual Sophomore-Freshman Tug-of-war took place Monday October 16, at 4 p. m. In the presence of a large crowd consisting of the faculty, student body and visitors. The Sophomore team pulled against the Freshman team, the latter won by the score of 16-0 owing to the fact that the "beef" of the Freshmen's team was too much for the Sophs. The two teams were not evenly matched causing the contest to lose much of its interest. The football men from both classes were not allowed to take part in the contest on account of the game with St. Bonaventue.

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 31, 1911

No. 7

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

LEBANON VALLEY DEFEATS PENBROOK

SCORE: 34-0

Before an enthusiastic crowd and when the weather was ideal, Lebanon Valley played its second home game of the season against the heavy team from Penbrook, and ran up a total of 34 points in sixty minutes of play.

The Penbrook team arrived hopeful of a victory because they had learned that Lebanon Valley's star varsity men would not appear in the line up on account of the hard game with Muhlenberg on Saturday next. Larew was kept out of the game until the last quarter because Coach Wilder would not run the risk of his injury so near to the big game of the season. Kreider, whom the Coach is desirous of developing into a substitute quarterback, played a consistent and heady game at quarter. Kreider is developing into one of the most valuable men on the team; plays a good game at full back and end, and runs the team well as quarterback.

In Saturday's game the team was instructed to use only four or five different plays for the first three quarters. Kreider was instructed not to use Strickler, the brilliant half back, as he too must go into the Muhlenberg game in the best of condition. Snively ploughed through the line in great style; while Burns carried the ball on a fake tackle play with telling effect. Captain Hensel, upon whom the coach depended to carry the ball on a tackle play, showed great promise and power when called upon in the early part of the game, and coach Wilder remarked "Muhlenberg will never stop him." Two or three strong plunges seemed to prove too much for captain Hensel who has not been in condition since the Lehigh game.

In the last quarter Larew was sent into the game and was told to let loose his offense. Strickler carried the ball around the ends for many long gains. Before Lebanon Valley's attack the Penbrook boys were completely mystified, and four touchdowns were made in rapid succession. On the first kickoff in the last quarter Larew carried the ball back thirty yards, and with the team working full speed, Strickler circled right end on the most startling run of the game, evading man after man, until he covered seventy yards for a touchdown.

Penbrook put up a fine game in the second and third quarters, and gave the Lebanon Valley boys a little more practice than they were looking for, especially in the second quarter when the college team was outplayed. Atticks, Eberle and White played a splendid game for Penbrook.

Great credit is due to Lebanon Valley's line for holding the big heavy forwards of Penbrook. Plummer, Charlton, Long, and Walters were in every play. Hayes and Manning at ends put up a great exhibition, especially in the second half. Bender, Enir and Statton showed great improvement over their previous work. The line-up.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

FAMOUS PLAY TO BE GIVEN BY THE MEMBERS OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

The members of the Junior class are working faithfully on the play which will be given probably about the first week in December. Miss Adams reports that she is well pleased with the progress of the caste, and it is expected that this play will be one of the most interesting productions ever presented by the Oratory Department.

The departments of Oratory and Music will give a recital on Tuesday evening November 7.

Philokosmian Hallowe'en Party

The annual Halloween party will be given by the Philokosmian Literary Society Tuesday evening October 31. The committee in charge has employed foot ball tactics and is working behind closed doors. We are confident that the committee, however, will work out a program that will prove interesting to all those who attend the party. Faculty, students and friends are all most cordially invited to attend this annual party.

Biological Field Club

We regret the fact that this lively organization, so important to the Biological department, has gone out of existence. We wonder who is responsible.

We are glad that Saturday's game brought us a victory, but how much more we should have appreciated it if the game had been won from a team of our own caliber. We rejoice in the victory but we regret the scenes that were enacted upon the field, for there was plenty of evidence of playing that should not be tolerated in any game. But we are happy to say to a man L. V.'s men played honorably and dealt fairly with their opponents—possibly better than they deserved. We cannot help but appreciate the extraordinary labors of our officials in securing and maintaining our football schedule as creditably as it has been maintained this fall. We realize the difficulties of arranging a schedule and recognize the magnitude of the task of developing a football squad from a new material. Thus far we have had every occasion for feeling proud of our team. Even though we have not won many victories every score goes to prove that the game was not an overwhelming defeat but that our team was in the game from the first to the last. Our eleven has played excellent ball in every game and we are proud of them. They have made a great showing every game in which they have had an equal or a stronger team to oppose them. After our observation of Saturday's game where fist fights were scarcely averted and where men were laid out maliciously we question the advisability of playing teams of that type. We cannot help but think that it were better to play only such teams that can find it convenient to come here without their cigarettes, etc., and which are composed of men who have learned to behave like men and who are in the game for the sake of the game itself. We doubt whether such games can offer very much opportunity for development.

Mathematical Round Table

The Mathematical Round Table held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening. A large number were present who listened to a splendidly prepared program. Everybody who was not there missed a treat. The first number on the program was an interesting paper on Mathematical Symbols by Miss Lau. She treated her subject from the standpoint of symbols of quantity and showed the historic development of the Arabic notation. Following her paper, Mr. Weidler read a biography of Napier. He gave incidents in the life of Napier that were not connected with his mathematical work. It gave a glimpse at the other side of this great mathematician's life.

The third and last number was a carefully prepared history of Calculus by Miss Lottie Spessard. She told how two men, Leibnitz and Newton contended for the honor of the invention of Calculus. At the conclusion of the program Prof. Lehman read a short well written magazine article on "How to decrease mortality in our geometry classes."

Everybody is cordially invited to attend the meetings of the Round Table.

Student Married

The following is taken from a recent issue of the Lebanon Daily News:

Announcement was made today of the wedding, on June 2nd, last, of Miss Elsie Deck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Deck, of 426 Spruce street, and Iva K. Potter, of Long Island, N. Y. The marriage was kept a secret even from closest friends of the young couple for a long time and it was only several weeks ago that intimate friends were apprised of the marriage ceremony, which took place at Wilmington, Delaware.

The secrecy observed is accounted for by the fact that Miss Deck was engaged as one of the subscription collectors for the Lebanon Daily News, and the young bridegroom was attending Lebanon Valley College. The student has decided to finish his education at Columbia University and they will therefore leave this evening for Long Island, to make their home with the parents of the bridegroom, while Mr. Potter continues his course of study.

The College News takes this opportunity to join with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Potter in extending congratulations and wishing them prosperity, joy and unalloyed happiness.

In Our Football Camp

Gruelling practice this week is the slogan and determination of Coach Wilder in his preparation for the great Muhlenberg game to be played on Muhlenberg's own gridiron, at Allentown, this coming Saturday. The Lebanon Valley men came out of the stiff practice against Penbrook last Saturday in good condition. The Penbrook boys demonstrated our weak spots and at the same time allowed Coach Willer to try out several green men. This week's work will be devoted to a correction of the faults brought out in Saturday's practice.

On Wednesday night Lebanon High will again come to Annville for the weekly scrimmage with the college team, and an effort will be made to get either Harrisburg High or Steelton here on Tuesday or Thursday for scrimmage work.

Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. Joint Session

A joint session of the Associations was held Sunday. The meeting was held one week before the usual date for Joint Session because of the presence of Mr. Deer, traveling student secretary for the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Deer gave us a most interesting talk along the line of real Christian service. He emphasized the fact that not through organization, merely, but through the following of Christ's method of personal service, we should be able to accomplish most.

The service was interesting and helpful throughout. Miss Gingrich favored us with a vocal solo. The meeting was in charge of Miss Edna Yarkers.

Everybody had a chance to have their picture taken last week. If you were not asked to get on any of them, it is because you are too good looking.

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

Lebanon Valley Loses to Muhlenberg 39-0

Lebanon Valley journeyed to Allentown on Saturday where they met defeat at the hands of the strong Muhlenberg college team. Our boys were outclassed throughout the whole game. The final period ended with the score standing 39-0 in Muhlenberg's favor.

Lebanon Valley won the toss and kicked off to Muhlenberg. The teams see-sawed the ball back and forth for the first seven minutes of play. Muhlenberg punted at this time. Kreider seemed dazed and fumbled. Bixler coming down the field took the ball and ran for a touchdown—our first gift to Muhlenberg. Lebanon Valley kicked off. Muhlenberg swept down the field but was held for downs. Lebanon Valley punted and Muhlenberg carried the ball back twenty yards and was held. Here Muhlenberg worked a forward pass which was protested on the grounds that it crossed the goal line. Score Muhlenberg 12-Lebanon Valley 0. Lebanon Valley again kicked off. Muhlenberg did some fast playing but could not cross the line. Reisner kicked a goal from placement. First quarter ended score Muhlenberg 15 Lebanon Valley 0.

In the second quarter Lebanon Valley showed up entirely different and easily outplayed Muhlenberg. Polly Strickler carried the ball across the line but was brought back because he ran out of bounds. Muhlenberg held, but Lebanon Valley got the ball and carried it to Muhlenberg's 1-yard line. Larew and Hayes figured in two sensational forward passes while Snavely plowed through Muhlenberg's tackles for long gains. With the

Lebanon Valley College and the Church

We quote below the words of two of the men prominent in our church as to the value and importance of a college course from the point of view of the church:

We have but one college in the East Bishop's District. It should be one of the very best in the country. Lebanon Valley College graduates who are called to the gospel ministry should go to Bonebrake Theological Seminary, as far as possible, and I am glad to say there are now ten young men, graduates, in Bonebrake Seminary from Lebanon Valley, as many college graduates as from all our other colleges and university combined.

There should be a college training as well as a theological. Every one must see that, if a choice has to be made between a college education on the one hand and a theological education on the other, the choice should be in favor of the college training. Let us have the best theological education, but by no means let us neglect the foundation, which is academic training. The age demands men of wide learning and thorough training. Our theological school should insist upon it, because the profound subjects taught in the theological school cannot be studied satisfactorily without the previous college training. The greatest efficiency in the work of the minister's service demands the previous training. Let us have a healthy sentiment on this subject.—W. H. Washinger.

Lebanon Valley College is now quite in the lead in the number of college representatives in the student body here, and still more to come, if the stars are propitious.—J. P. Landis, President.

Philo. Hallowe'en Party

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

The annual Hallowe'en party given by the Philokosmians to the Faculty, students, and friends of the college was held Tuesday evening, October 31. In obedience to the instructions of the committee in charge, all assembled in the chapel from whence they were conducted by the "devils" by a circuitous route to the library where the preparations were laid for the party. The second floor and basement were beautifully decorated with corn fodder, pumpkins, and apples, and lighted by many jack-o'-lanterns. After a visit to the basement where apples and cider were to be had the guests were conducted above where refreshments were served, after which many of the "young folks" played many of those old, time-honored games such as "Bingo," etc. At a reasonable hour the guests departed.

There were present more than one hundred and fifty guests and the party certainly was a splendid success.

Are you disturbed by noises in the dormitory to such an extent that you cannot study? This question was prevalent the other week among the inhabitants of the boys' dormitory, and was analyzed, discussed, and torn to pieces by them. It was brought into existence by certain authorities who misunderstood the actions of students who moved from the dormitory to lodge else where. Certain conclusions were drawn and ideas formed until they really believed that some one was being disturbed by noises arising in the dormitory.

The body having charge of the conduct in and around the dormitory, whose duty is to receive all complaints arising from any disturbance, received no complaint from the supposed complainants. However, the complaints, which were given birth by certain conclusions based on facts, were quietly brought to those in charge of dormitory conduct with a statement that matters should be investigated.

Jumping at conclusions and taking certain things for granted is a bad policy which should never be adopted. It seems quite strange, even extraordinary, that the committee on investigation, after questioning all the fellows, found two who stated that they were disturbed to such an extent that they could not study, while many of the others gave the committee "the laugh" and declared that the "calm peacefulness" which reigns in the dormitory at times has a wierd effect upon them and that it is impossible for them to get away from this feeling until they are brought to their senses by some noise.

Strange is it not, that the two disturbed gentlemen came to the committee later and made public confession that they could study if so minded and that they caused some of the noise in the dormitory? Is it not a striking fact that the investigating committee received a report from the whole list of fellows directly opposite to that received from those who wished investigations made? Much of our trouble at this college arises from the lack of proper consideration before taking action. The investigating committee, after spending much time and energy in finding the true conditions, were rewarded for their labor by the mere statement, "We are glad to know that the conditions in the dormitory are so good."

This disturbance agitation revives the old question of separating the College and Academy students. We will state a few reasons for taking this stand. The two gentlemen, to whom we made previous references, are academy students. It has been proven to us by experience that students in the Academy, as a rule, need a more quiet and secluded place in which to study than a college man. He does not have the same power of concentration. Other schools have found this to be a fact and have arranged separate buildings for them. They are at the age when it is necessary to have some head over them who will look after their welfare and keep them from following their wilder inclinations. They are at the age when absurd ideas are prevalent. When they are placed among college men they consider themselves equal to college men and the results which follow are not the best. The Good Book says a "swelled head" is an abomination to the Lord.

Miss Ella Morrison and Miss Anna Diegel visited John Morrison, '15, one day last week.

ball on Muhlenberg's 1-yard line Lebanon Valley fumbled and Muhlenberg kicked it out of danger. Score, Muhlenberg 15, Lebanon Valley 0. It began to look as if Lebanon Valley would have a chance if they could stand the pace.

Muhlenberg received the kick-off in the second half. Lebanon Valley was tired out and the resistance from the players became weaker. Muhlenberg easily scored another touchdown and the game became a plucky fight on the part of Lebanon Valley to keep the score as low as possible. Muhlenberg now sent in many fresh men who were equally as good as the regular men. Earl Loser formerly of Lebanon Valley starred and gave our team more trouble than any Muhlenberg man except Reisner. Polly Loser also played a while. It is to be regretted that Lebanon Valley let these two men get away to another college. The quarters were fifteen minutes in duration which was entirely too long for an outclassed team with only two or three capable substitutes. Score at end of game Muhlenberg 39, Lebanon Valley 0.

Manning put up a very brilliant game when he was sent in to stem the tide, in fact he showed more defensive ability than any other Lebanon Valley player and refused to be fooled by Muhlenberg's offense. His tackling was a revelation, time and again throwing Muhlenberg's heavy backs for a loss which is really remarkable since he played 5 yards back on the defense. Charlton and Larew played great defensive games while Long was the best forward Lebanon Valley had.

Muhlenberg presented, as fine a looking squad of football men as any team Lebanon Valley has played. They were all of the tall, husky, raw boned type who could stand hard work and a lot of pounding. There were at least 14 men on the Muhlenberg squad who had more physique than any man at Lebanon Valley. The line up:

What is Success? was the question that the Association girls endeavored to answer in their meeting on Sunday afternoon. Miss Florence Clippinger led the meeting. She held that men have many standards by which they measure success, such as wealth and social rank. But we make a great mistake in measuring that success from man's point of view and not from God's. In his sight even a failure is counted a success if it has represented man's best efforts.

An interesting discussion followed the leader's remarks.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Brenneman led the meeting on Sunday afternoon. He chose as a basis for his address the words, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." He showed the difference in the results obtained by using the two standards of judgment, and that in judging others we can only do so by what we see and hear. But to ourselves we can apply, to a certain extent, the standard which God uses.

Mr. Grimm and Mr. Clair Harnish also helped to develop the theme by giving illustrations from life which made clear the subject.

The Concert

Only words of commendation for the Dudley Buck Company are heard from those who listened to them on last Saturday evening. They rendered a varied program of well selected numbers, and demonstrated the fact that each member of the troupe is an artist. The house was well filled with an attentive, appreciative audience who gave evidence that they thoroughly enjoyed every number that was presented.

The next number of the Star Course is November 22nd. Mr. Ott in one of his famous lectures will give us something that will be of permanent benefit.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 14, 1911

No. 9

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Lebanon Valley 11, Middletown A. C. 5

In an uninteresting game Lebanon Valley defeated Middletown by the score of 11-5. The smallest crowd of the season witnessed the game. Lebanon Valley played a weak game on the defense but were exceptionally strong carrying the ball. Lebanon Valley was not able to work any forward passes. A Middletown man was always on the spot to intercept them. Snively played a great kicking game. "Polly" Strickler and Kreider played a fast game in the back field. Lerew at quarter put up his usual good game. John Manning again gave evidences of star playing both defensive and aggressive.

Middletown could do nothing carrying the ball, but put up a stubborn defense. Rudy broke through Lebanon Valley's line and stopped play after paly, while Titus put up a brilliant game.

Lebanon Valley got their first score in the first quarter. Middletown fumbled on their forty-yard line and Lebanon Valley got the ball. Snappy playing advanced it to the ten yard line where Kreider carried it over on a skin tackle play. Snively kicked the goal. Lebanon Valley's second score came early in the third quarter. Lebanon Valley kicked off to Middletown, Middletown punted and ball went out of bounds. Lebanon Valley got the ball. Polly Strickler carried it over after a long run. Middletown's only score came in the second quarter when Shaffner blocked an onside kick and carried the ball over the line for a touchdown.

Final score 11-5

Touchdowns, Kreider, Strickler and Shaffner. Goals kicked-Snively. Referee-Dwyer, Harrisburg, Umpire

—Rutherford, Middletown. Field judge—Smith, York Collegiate Institute. Head linesman—Hensel Lebanon Valley. Time of quarters 15 minutes.

Ministerial Association

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Student's Ministerium met on Thursday evening November 2, at the home of Mark Wert. The interest manifested in this organization has been greater than ever. This steadily growing interest reached its height Thursday evening when all but two members were present. The association was addressed by Rev. I. Moyer Hershey, '03. His subject was "The Minister's Call." The address was one of the finest of its kind. The speaker brought out many vital points, emphasizing that the minister's call embodied the following:

1. Responsiveness to what is right.
2. Definite personal experience that Jesus Christ as a life is a Savior from sin.
3. Overcoming the doubts of sin.
4. A life set apart for a distinctive work.
5. Strong desire to preach the gospel.

He expressed in one sentence the whole essence of the Minister's call: "It is the indisputable and overwhelming conviction that one called should yield his life and powers and all to God in the advancement of the church and in the salvation of men."

The next meeting will be held November 16, in the assembly room of the library. Prof. Schroyer will address the association on "The value of Greek to the Christian Ministry."

On account of the Star Course Number which comes on the 22nd, the Mathematical Round Table will hold its next meeting on the 27th, instead of the 22nd, as announced.

Students' Recital

The recital given by the students of the Oratory and Music departments, on last Tuesday evening was a success in more ways than one. Not only was it an evening of enjoyable entertainment for those who came to hear, but it furnished additional evidence that the heads of these two important departments are "able to deliver the goods." Both departments have been greatly built up this year and are doing excellent work, of which the recital was good demonstration. These recitals are not only a splendid practice for the participants but they serve as an advertising medium for these departments. As for those who participated in the program,—every one who heard them feels that each number was well rendered and reflected credit on those who gave them, as well as on the department which they represented.

Faculty Entertained

President and Mrs. Keister entertained the members of the faculty on Friday evening. After a very enjoyable evening spent in playing games and in other forms of amusement, refreshments were served, and the guests departed glad to have had the opportunity of enjoying one of those delightful evenings which Mr. and Mrs. Keister always provide for their guests.

The pleasure of the evening was enhanced by the presence of Mrs. Wilson, who surprised her sister, Mrs. Keister with a visit.

Game Cancelled

There will be no game in the coming week. Owing to misunderstanding, Mt. St. Mary's cancelled the game. It was to have been played at Emmittsburg, Maryland. Unless we get another game scheduled the season will come to a close.

Look above. There are only a few members upon our staff. A few persons cannot hear everything that goes on in college. It is up to all to contribute to the locals; if you hear any news concerning the college; if you have any information or criticism, tell us. All can help to boost. The "News" is the mouth of the college, give it something worth talking about.

We regret very much that our last week's editorial conveyed the wrong impression to the readers of the paper, which was in truth, not our purpose nor intention. Conflicting statements by the same parties to us and to the dean caused the misunderstanding for which neither we nor the dean especially, can in any way be responsible. In our experience in the dormitory we can truthfully say that we seldom found it too noisy there to do good work. True, there are conditions occasionally that would hardly be suited to a nursery, but what student cannot appreciate a bit of diversion now and then. Of all this we are aware; we are perfectly well acquainted with present conditions in the building, and it would be entirely unfair to suppose that the individual members of the faculty should have any first-hand knowledge of the same, and therefore we do not mean to pronounce censure on them for making inquiry when adverse reports reach them for that is one of the their duties.

"Heroes and Heroworship"

We all adore heroes and admire heroism, and we sigh for those olden days of chivalry when knights rode forth and conquered unconquerable enemies and destroyed invulnerable monsters. But there is an organization in this institution whose members have been performing prodigies of chivalric valor and heroic bravery which make the fabled exploits of the Knights of the Round Table and the insignificant deeds of such exploded heroes as Bayard and the Black Prince forgot themselves in wandering jealousy. This brave band has organized with the laudable purpose of making things more pleasant about the Dormitory, for everybody in general and the Preps. and Freshmen in particular. And they have permitted absolutely nothing to prevent them from attaining this object. Their heroic bravery is only equaled by their unbounded chivalry and love of fair play. They have guarded us from many a lurking, unseen danger, which if left unchecked must surely have proved fatal to the existence of our college. Time after time this little band of not more than twelve men, armed only with sticks from two to four feet long, have entered, as it were, the very lair of some ferocious monster in the form of a Prep. or Freshman. They usually find the foe using incantations, alchemy, etc., in their efforts to hatch gruesome schemes for subverting the established order of things. The "Monster" is brought forth from his den and out into some open space, where by various methods which I will not attempt to describe, he is made "meek and lowly in heart," but does not always "find rest unto his soul," even though he promises to do whatever the powers decree. It is in this part of the proceedings that the crude weapons which our heroes carry, are brought into active requisition. Another thing that helps explain the almost supernatural, influence which they have over the victim is the fact that their favorite motto is that "Discretion is the better part of valor," so that they never undertake any affair unless they are in a majority of ten or twelve to one. And herein do they show their unfailing wisdom, for if two or three ferocious Freshmen should combine when there are only twelve or fifteen of the noble knights present, it is hard to predict what dreadful results might follow. But thanks to their precautions such a catastrophe has never occurred, but unqualified success has attended every effort that they have made. For the one who is undergoing treatment is not released until he sees the error of his ways. Bruised in body, resentful of the indignities to which he has been subjected, his mind filled with thoughts of vengeance, (all of which results are, of course, highly desirable) the "victim" is at last restored to his room, and our band of heroes seek their rest feeling that they have once more served their country and their institution and have saved both from destruction. That their hearts are in their work is evidenced by the fact that they allow no little scruples to interfere with their duty. Such little things as the fact that at most other institutions hazing has gone out of existence two hundred years ago, or the fact that even barbarians refuse to impose upon a foe if the odds are more than six to one, or the fact that the victim will probably be embittered against the school and against his school-mates, are merely incentives to their enthusiasm.

Water Works Party

On Tuesday evening, November 7, the A. B. Club of school entertained with a moon-light walk and chicken and waffle supper at the Water Works. The party left at 5:30 and spent a very pleasant evening. Those present were Misses Kathryn Bachman, Ora Bachman, Edith Lehman, Lottie Spessard, Josephine Ulrich, Florence Christeson, Edith Gingrich, Helen Brighthill and Messrs. Oliver Butterwick, George Botts, John Lyter, Tomass Lyter, Ralph Stickel, Philo Statton, Paul Bowman and Paul Kreider. The party was chaperoned by Miss Mary Louse Christeson, of town.

The association meeting was led Sunday afternoon by A. H. Harnish. The leader spoke upon the theme "Launching Out," the scripture lesson for which being found in Luke 5:4. The principal thought of the lesson centered about the common practical experience of all that the successful business man is the man who has launched out and untiringly has ventured to accomplish something. What is true in the commercial world ought to be true of the spiritual. The meeting was one of the most interesting of the year for many responded at the call of the leader.

Prof. Shenk: (In History 2 and 3) Great Britain is very densely populated.

Charleton: Perhaps that is why an Englishman can not see a joke, because the population is so "dense."

Y. W. C. A.

The Association meeting Sunday afternoon was in charge of Miss Edna Yarkers. Owing to the fact that November 12 to 18 is the week of prayer, the leader thought it wise to give a brief outline of Association work in other lands in order to familiarize the girls with the great needs and arouse their enthusiasm for the week.

After the remarks by the leader, Miss Lottie Spessard gave a report of the Missionary conference held several weeks ago at Lafayette college.

Girls remember that this is the week of prayer. Meetings will be held every evening from 5:45 to 6 p. m. Let every girl be present at every meeting.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 21, 1911

No. 10

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

FOOTBALL AT LEBANON VALLEY

IN THE PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE

From one point of view this season's record in football has been one marked by success. As looked upon from the other angle this year's football team was so weak that it has gained no recognition as a college team. Those of us who see from the inside, those who were here during the first week's practice and looked upon the squad which reported to play against such teams as Carlisle, Lehigh, Delaware, and Muhlenburg do not feel dismayed at the long column of defeats, but feel proud of the men or rather boys, who held together, played the game and always won a moral victory. Looking at the other side one sees nothing but defeats, no hope for football at Lebanon Valley, a team which is a joke among other colleges. The verdict which pronounces success upon this team's efforts is the one from those who know conditions, or from the one who sees underneath to the real true object of all athletics. Unfortunately this is the extreme minority report. We are not placed on the football maps drawn for lovers of sport or for those interested in the one distinctly college game.

We started the season with two of last year's team, Hensel and Hayes. There were, in addition, Charleton and Kreider, substitutes, from the year before. Hensel is the only man who had any good experience with a strong team, and the only man who possessed any football knowledge with the exception of Larew and Morrison who came to us well grounded in the fundamentals of the game. To make matters worse we had to finish the season without the services of Hensel.

A team which lines up for its first game of the season with only two men over twenty years of age and with its heaviest man at 172 is out of its class in college football.

It seems to me that the football situation at Lebanon Valley has reached its crisis. It is unwise to continue to send out a team to play other college teams represented as we are. There are only two things to do. We should either abolish football at once or else begin at once to give our college a team which will at least be represented as a good team. It has always been the mistake heretofore to give up in despair if the first attempt failed. It shows no knowledge of football or athletics in general to expect a winning team as the result of one year's endeavor. A football team cannot be built up in one or two years. If we intend to keep in the ranks now is the time to act. We lose only one man by graduation, Captain Plummer. Thus next year will see at least fourteen of this year's team on the field. However, it happens that the material at hand is so far from being, what is called a college team that ten years of playing together could not make a college football aggregation. That is the situation as it presents itself at this time, abolish football or begin to play the college game next year. When one considers that there are but two or three of our boys who could make a strong team it is readily seen that we need material. That expression "college football" means a great deal. The best team that Lebanon Valley has had in the last six years, was Captain Sheaffer's team of two years ago, coached by Roy Guyer. That respectively strong Lebanon Valley team lost to Muhlenburg 14-0 when Muhlenburg did not have the

EDWARD AMHERST OTT

Mr. Edward Amherst Ott, "The Purposeful Orator" will appear November 22 in the conservatory of Music to fill the second number of the Star Course. Mr. Ott lectures on the following subjects: "Sour Grapes," "Will Your Dreams Come True" or "The Haunted House," "The Spenders" and "A Fortune for You" or "The Story of a City." He is equally strong in all of them.

He combines much humor and entertainment in these great lectures. One of his lectures alone, in published form, has reached the 25,000 class.

Mr. Ott is without doubt one of the greatest orators, in his line, that traverse the country. Too much cannot be said of him. He comes to us highly recommended by the Redpath Brockway Lyceum Bureau of Pittsburgh and by people to whom he has lectured.

shadow of this year's Muhlenburg team. They have not had a strong team until this year. It took the Alumni of the Allentown College six years of untiring work before there were any apparent results.

That is where we stand. If we are on the map at all it is away off in some isolated corner.

I, for one, would feel badly if football were abolished and I know there are many others who would feel likewise. The small college reaps all the benefits and more of the evils accruing from participation in the "college" game.

This is the best time for me to express my deepest appreciation to the fifteen football men who worked in harmony through a discouraging season with no support from the student body, no scrub team, and scarcely an alumnus ever appearing on the field to assist them. Manager Butterwick was our only help and but for him the season would hardly have been opened. If football is continued Lebanon Valley owes a great deal to "Ollie" Butterwick whose ceaseless work and spirited good nature kept the team intact.

There will be a few stars on the team next year if some of the men live up to indications. Long will make a great guard. Harry Charleton gives promise of being a strong center. Hayes will make a fine end if he can acquire a little more speed. Lawren knows more football than any man on the team and should be a great help next year. Snaveley came to us from Dannville, very, very green but has improved wonderfully and by the time he is a junior, will be the equal of Jesse Yoder. It gives me pleasure indeed to mention "Polly" Strickler, a boy from Lebanon High School who knew no football and never played until this year except on the lots. I never saw a person absorb so much of the game in a season as "Polly" did and today he is the greatest half back in an open field that Lebanon Valley ever had. Behind a woefully weak line he has carried the ball in the brilliant, heady manner used by all great halfbacks. He always surveys his field, possesses a peculiar form, which is deceptive, uses great speed, knows how to stop and start which is an exception in a young player and is never downed in his tracks. When Strickler discovers the value of the straight arm and the stiff leg he will be unsurpassed as he is sure on punts, reliable defensively and takes the swing around end like a Vaughn or a Weeks.

Perhaps it will be along ordinary lines to select an all star team from the contestants in all the Lebanon Valley games after the first affair at Carlisle:

1st TEAM	POSITION	2d TEAM
Wounded Eye (Ind. Res.)	L. E.	Vela (Lehigh)
Dayton (Lehigh)	L. T.	Todd (Delaware)

This team would be a dangerous opponent for any of the big Universities. In Wounded Eye and Bixler we have a pair of fast, heady, and scrappy ends who would cover kicks, interfere and break with plays from whistle to whistle. Dayton and Kraus would make the best pair of tackles, two men who could break interferences and open holes. A team is as strong as its tackles. Millington of Delaware is the best guard we met this year, tall, strong, fast, and in the game all the time. Bianco would work well with Millington. Wylie the Lehigh Captain is the best center I have seen since Hoop of Dartmouth played. Reisner the Muhlenburg quarter is very accurate, handles punts, runs his team well and is exceedingly hard to stop in an open field. Taylor, of Delaware picks his openings admirably, and runs outside tackle with tremendous speed. Western of Lehigh and Strickler, of Lebanon Valley would not be denied behind a team like this. "Things we have learned from noble women outside the Bible" was the topic of our afternoon's meeting. Miss Zimmerman was the leader and she used as her example "My Mother." The several talks were of the same character with the mention of several noted women. The meeting was very interesting and impressive.

The past week was the Y. W. C. A. week of prayer. A prayer meeting was held each evening from 5:45 to 6. During the week a short review of the Association work of all important countries was given by the leaders. Praise was given for their success and prayers were offered for future success. The meetings were well attended and the results encouraging.

Ministerial Association

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Student's Ministerium met on Thursday evening November 1, in the Assembly room of the library. The interest manifested in this organization was very encouraging. The association was addressed by Prof. A. E. Shroyer. His subject was "The value of Greek to the Minister." The address was very instructive and interesting. He emphasized the study of Greek as an essential to real Bible study. The next meeting will be held December 7, at the home of Prof. Shroyer. Rev. Daugherty will address the association.

Dorm. Girls Entertained

On Saturday evening Misses Johnson, Seltzer, and Marble very delightfully entertained the girls of the dormitory. The evening was spent in performing various feats of skill with cranberries which afforded much amusement for everyone. Score was kept and each person credited with every feat successfully performed.

Prizes were awarded to Miss Ethel Daugherty and Miss Mary Mills for scoring the greatest number of points. Elegant refreshments were served.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume III.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 28, 1911

No. 11

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

LEBANON VALLEY LOSES LAST GAME

Lebanon Valley lost the last game of the season to Ursinus by the score of 40 to 6. This is the first game that Lebanon Valley has played with Ursinus since athletic connections were broken six years ago. The representatives of the Blue and White were entertained royally at Collegeville and came home filled with praise for their hosts. The game was clean throughout. Lebanon Valley received better treatment at Ursinus than at any other college visited by them this year.

The White and Blue were completely outclassed by the heavier Ursinus team. Their only score was made in the last quarter when Morrison took a forward pass on the dead run and carried it over the goal line for a touchdown. Snavelly kicked a goal. The play was contested by the Ursinus men, who claimed that it was an incomplete forward pass. After some discussion the officials ruled that it was a touchdown for Lebanon Valley.

The game was marked by sensational runs and passes. Both sides worked their forward passes remarkably well. There were very few fumbles in spite of the extremely muddy field.

Yoh, Captain Kerr Thompson, and Potteiger starred for Ursinus. Potteiger gave a remarkable exhibition of open field tackling, and his speed often enabled him to tackle the White and Blue backs for losses. He was seen in the midst of every play, and was an enraged tiger on both defensive and offensive. Behney, the brilliant quarterback, started the game for Ursinus, but had to retire after one or two rushes because of a bad knee.

For Lebanon Valley, Kreider, Morrison, Snavelly, and Larew were stars. Kreider showed superb work on the offense. Morrison also did great work on the offense. Snavelly's punting showed up better in this game than any time during the season. Larew's tackling was highly sensational. Statton played a good game both on the offense and the defense. The fellows showed a great fighting spirit. They fought gamely over every inch of ground throughout the game. The line up:

Ursinus		Lebanon Valley
Seaman	L. E.	Hayes
Yoh	L. T.	Plummer
R. Thompson	L. G.	Burns
Erickson	C.	Charlton
Minnich	R. G.	Enir
K. Thompson	R. T.	Statton

Clio-Philo Joint Session

The first joint session of these two societies for this year was held on Thursday evening at 7:15 p. m. in Philo Hall, Philo officers presiding. The program was splendidly rendered and everyone was delighted. There were present more than a hundred persons including four of our Professors, each of whom gave us an address abounding in good cheer and instruction.

We appreciated the presence of so many members of the faculty and we wish to say that they are always welcome to our meetings.

At the close of the program the session was changed into a social gathering at which time refreshments were served adding interest to the evening's entertainment. The session was held on Thursday evening on account of the Carnival being given in the chapel on the regular evening of our meeting.

Organ Recital

Will be given Wednesday, November 29 at 7:45 p. m. in the U. B. church, Annville, Pa., by Prof. Urban H. Hershey, assisted by Miss Edith Gingrich, Soloist, and Miss Maybelle Adam, Reader, under auspices of the Men's Adult Bible class of the said church.

The News extends to all its readers and friends its heartiest wishes for a most happy Thanksgiving.

"Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father." Ephesians 5:20.

To observe one day a year as a day of "thanks giving" would be a fine and proper procedure. There is every reason why civilized people should do this and it is very much to their discredit that they neglect this opportunity. For, with the vast majority of our people, the day is devoted to cooking, eating, footballing and merry making of all sorts. All these phases of recreation have their place but should not be abused, they should not be entered into to such an extent that we forget the solemnity of the day,—a day wherein we should be brought to a sense of all the benefits and blessings we have received.

We are a favored people. We live in the time of the world's greatest progress and we are placed in a land which, if rightly cared for and cultivated, will furnish food for many years. But to make Thanksgiving Day a mere feast day is to lower ourselves to the standing of animals. We as people should have a higher purpose for celebrating the day than merely for feasting and having a general good time.

As with nearly every other holiday, we have allowed this one to degenerate into a more or less hollow mockery. Thanksgiving Day is observed only by the fact that it brings together loved ones who have been separated for a long time, or who have little chance to come together at any other time; because it does renew and strengthen the home ties, which at times need strengthening. Let us lift this day out of the common level of a feast day to the level of a Real Thanksgiving. We need not proceed as if we were attending some funeral, but we should act as if we were intent upon something beyond a "good time." It was to thank God for the numerous blessings received that this day was originally set aside.

If we gave thanks in due measure for the blessings of the past year, we would have time for nothing else during the day. But this is not necessary, for God does not ask for repetition of words or ceremonies. We are not supposed to spend the whole day giving thanks verbally, for God does not expect this of us but he does expect us to be in a thankful mood and show our appreciation for the blessings he bestows upon us. It is highly permissible that we get the highest pleasure and benefits out of the day that are possible to be gotten but we must not over look the purposes for which this day was originally set aside.

When we stop to think of the innumerable blessings which are ours,—the blue skies, the beautiful running streams, the green grass and the trees, sunlight and many others which are essential to our existence,—does it not seem that we have cause for a somewhat more solemn and serious observance of the day than is commonly given it?

Children's Carnival

The primary department of the U. B. church, assisted by the Annville High School students, gave a carnival on Friday and Saturday evenings in the Engle conservatory. The children's solos were the feature of the carnival. The first part of the program consisted of scenes and tableaux by the primary children.

The second part of the program consisted mostly of parts rendered by the older boys and girls. Miss Anna Kreider was head instructor and deserves much credit for her work. About one hundred and fifty dollars was realized for the church building fund.

Mathematical Round Table

The Mathematical Round Table held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening. Mr. McConnel read a very interesting paper on "Economy in Mathematics." The points brought out were, that economy depends upon the teacher's methods, the arrangement of the text book, and upon destroying the drudgery of Mathematics by the use of logarithms, cancellation etc. Following the paper, the Round Table conducted a lively mathematical "quiz". The questions asked were mostly concerning the underlying principles of mathematics.

There will be no Round Table meeting in December. The next meeting will be held early in January.

Lebanon Valley Exhibit

Last Tuesday L. B. Harnish, '14, and Artist Blazier, of Lebanon, were in Harrisburg completing arrangements for a pictorial exhibit of Lebanon Valley College in the Museum of the State Department of Education, in which all the leading Pennsylvania Colleges are represented.

The previous week, Mr. Harnish secured the placement of the college catalogue and a souvenir in this museum. This is the first representation Lebanon Valley College has had in this Educational Department.

Y. M. C. A.

In anticipation of the approaching day of the National Thanksgiving, the meeting was devoted to the observance of that day. The meeting was led by F. Stengle, '15, and short addresses were given by six of the members relative to the national and personal observance of Thanksgiving day. The thought was repeatedly expressed that every day ought to be a day of thanksgiving unto the Lord even though one special day is set aside for that purpose, or else that day will prove to be "our busy day" and give us no opportunity to do anything else.

Edward Amherst Ott

Did the dream come true, which we had when we invited Mr. Ott to come and lecture to us? Well rather, and more than we dreamed, too. Those of us who had heard him before felt that he "Ott" to make a hit with Lebanon Valley people, and we judged rightly. His lecture "Will Your Dreams Come True," was filled with inspiring thoughts, illustrated with humorous anecdotes which served, not only to make his teachings clear, but helped to fasten them in the mind of the hearer. Those who did not hear him missed a great treat.

Y. W. C. A.

"The Power of a Contented Life," was the subject of our afternoon meeting. The lesson was based upon the life of Paul. The leader, Elizabeth Lau, showed to us the contented life of Paul and the many things that helped to make it so. The main thing pointed out to us and that which we can apply to our own life was "for I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content" and "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Our own life will be content in so far as we make it so. Most of our "blue spells" come from thinking of our own troubles and misfortunes and also from wishing to have for ourselves, that which others have. She closed her remarks with Henry Van Dyke's "The Foot-path to Peace."

A Moment's Time

A moment's time to stand and see
The golden sun, fast fading from our view;

It's rays in rich profusion spread
A short time ere the falling dew.

A moment's time—a scene how rare,
Our college court enwrapped in stilly
night;

The rustling leaves by zephyrs blown
Break through the stillness in their flight.

A moments time for giving thanks
To Him who watches o'er us while we sleep;

And, with the dawning, rosy morn,
Gives joys unnumber'd—ours to reap.

J. F. LEININGER, '13

Alumni

Mrs. Nona Downey Hockenbury, Oratoy, '11, on the evening of November 17, gave a very successful recital at Mt. Holly Springs. She was assisted by Miss Butler, a contralto soloist. Mrs. Hockenbury gave a cutting from "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm" which she arranged herself.

J. K. Lehman, '11, Prof. of Chemistry and Physics in the high school at Red Oak, Iowa, visited W. O. Ellis, '11, Instructor in Iowa State College, Nov. 8 and 9.

We take pleasure in publishing the following clipping taken from a Hagerstown paper, which gives an account of a recital given by Miss Verda Snyder, Oratory, '11, on Thursday evening, November 16.

"The dramatic recital of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" given by Miss Verda Allena Snyder, Keysville, graduate of the department of oratory, at Lebanon Valley College, was enjoyed by a large audience at St. Paul's U. B. Church, Thursday evening. The large auditorium and gallery were filled.

Miss Snyder gave to her audience, in a masterful way, the lessons taught by Dickens through his characters.

The different characters were portrayed in a manner that brought them as it were on the platform with her."

A man's nature runs either to herbs or weeds; therefore let him seasonably water the one and destroy the other.—Bacon.

Hensel, '12, Plummer, '12, and Kreider, '14, went to Harrisburg, Tuesday night on business.

Ressler, Charlton, Stengle, Boughter, J. Lyter, and Boltz, acted as "supers" in Madam X, Friday night.

Bowman and Mowrey walked "to and fro" between Annville and Hershey, Saturday.

Titus Leibold, '12, is now located at Birdsboro, Pa., where he is doing Pastoral work. He spent Thursday and Friday as a guest here.

Henry Snavelly and Avon Light, "suped" as French police in Madam X.

Warren Hayes, '14, preached in the U. B. Church, at Avon, during Rev. Longenecker absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Long and their son William visited Harry Long, of the Academy, Saturday and Sunday.

"Palm Season" has started in the Conservatoy.

Messrs. Charlton, Ulrich, Tom Lyter, Keister, Shepley, Ischy and John Lyter attended the recital given by Miss Frantz, at Lebanon last week.

David E. Young, made a business trip to Lancaster, on Saturday.

Some of the L. V. C. young men who contributed so much to making "Madam X," a success last Friday evening, are suffering considerably from the effects of becoming "stage struck," on that occasion. It was quite evident that they would make good on the board's.

Mr. S. H. Bowers, of Lemoyne, newly elected trustee of the college, accompanied by Rev. R. R. Rodas, of Wormleysburg, visited the college to-day.

F. S. Hensel, '12, left for Philadelphia Tuesday morning on a pleasure trip. He will spend Thanksgiving at his home in Lykens.

CLIONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY CELEBRATES 41st ANNIVERSARY

The Forty-first Anniversary exercises of the Clionian Literary Society were rendered on Thanksgiving evening in the college chapel at eight o'clock. The occasion was one of extreme gratification not only to the members of the society but to its friends as well. In spite of the fact that many of the students had gone home for Thanksgiving the chapel was nearly filled with alumni and friends of Clio. The chapel was tastefully decorated for the occasion with bunting in the society colors, and with beautiful palms. The simplicity and originality of the design could not fail to make it pleasing and artistic.

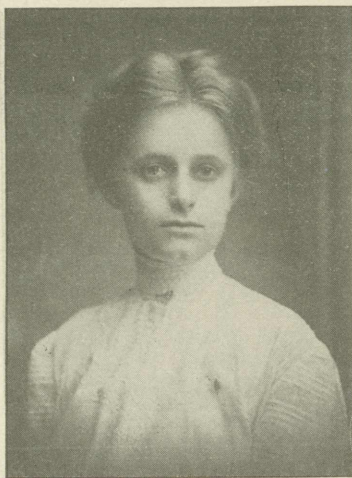

The program was well rendered and judging from the applause it was much appreciated. The past few years have been years of unusual growth for Clio and the speakers of the evening represented the work of the society to the best advantage. Every address was characteristic of its author which added not a little to its enjoyment. The manner of expression of each speaker made it easy for the audience to follow her thought and at the same time, it showed that the theme was carefully planned and developed. A lively interest in the subject and a thorough preparation for its presentation was visible in every number. The participants held the close attention of the large audience from start to finish of the program.

At the conclusion of the literary exercises, a reception was held in the Ladies' Parlors. The parlors were also decorated in the society colors, gold and white, and were very pretty indeed. Quite a large number of the guests attended the reception. Delightful refreshments were served.

Keim's orchestra from Lebanon furnished the music for the occasion. Everybody agreed that this anniversary was one of the most successful and entertaining ever celebrated by Clio.

The Anniversary program in full follows—

President's Address

Higher education, in the present age, is a problem of deep interest and supreme importance. The value of collegiate training cannot be questioned. Upon investigation you will find that college men and women form the support and backbone of modern society. They are the men and women who have overcome difficulties in college; who are willing to sacrifice their lives for the betterment of humanity; and who realize that they have lives to live and that it is their duty to live them nobly and unselfishly.

There are those, however, who object to collegiate training because of the years which must necessarily elapse before men and women may enter upon their life-work. They argue that young men and young women consume too great a part of the three score years and ten, allotted as the span of human life, in merely fitting themselves for its activities. Apparently they do not realize that success in life depends upon efficiency, and that it does not matter how late we take up our life-work, if we are only well fitted. Too many young people set out upon the hardest battle of life-living, untaught, unaided, unprepared. Would a player be sent upon the stage without having learned his part? "All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players." To fill our respective parts in this play of life, which is so real and so perplexing, requires thorough and efficient training. It is this preparation which the college strives to give and does give to all who come under its influence.

Yet it must be admitted that some young people enter college, who are mentally incapable of pursuing a course of study. For such the years spent here are but a waste of time. It would be much better for them to put forth their energies in other lines of work in which they might be more successful and more helpful to their fellow-beings. Not all of us are endowed with the same amount of "gray matter," neither are we all destined to be scholars, philosophers, and mathematicians. If such were the case, we would be victims of most unfortunate circumstances. The laborer, the farmer, and the artisan are as necessary to our welfare as the scholar, the philosopher, and the mathematician; and all are essential for the success of our great social system.

But why do we go to college? A prominent scholar of the day says that an education may be acquired at home by the systematic reading of good books. This may, in part, be true: but the college affords opportunities which the home cannot give. A man does not go to college to gain knowledge from books alone, but to acquire knowledge enriched by contact with the mature minds of the professors and by association with fellow-students. Man is by nature a social creature. His whole being craves society. The college is the only place which can meet this need. Here he finds all types of men from widely different sections of the country. Through intimate association with such men, he acquires the broadest possible understanding of human life with its many perplexing problems. Thus he becomes a liberal-minded man, a man free from class prejudice, eager to lend a helping hand in the interests of humanity.

At Lebanon Valley social spirit has taken the form of literary societies. These organizations seek to cultivate literary and musical talent, as well as to promote sociability. To accomplish this purpose, in eighteen hundred and seventy, the girls of the college organized the Clonian Literary Society, which, during the forty-one years of its existence, has been attended with great success. This evening we have gathered here to celebrate another birthday. In behalf of its members, it is with great pleasure that I welcome you to our anniversary exercises.

Who's Who-And Why

The world is ever ready to render homage to the man who achieves greatness in any sphere. The fame of the eminent statesman, the skilled painter or the illustrious hero of battle extends over the whole land, and his name is known and respected over all the earth. Society rightfully bows in recognition of his genius. His achievement has benefited mankind and he justly merits the distinction that he has won.

But society falls into a grievous error if it lavishes all its applause upon this class of men for there are multitudes of other men who are every whit as deserving of her respect and honor. It is true that this latter class can lay claim to no greatness in representing society in affairs of state, in painting pictures that shall hang in the galleries of the future, or in leading an army in battle array to a glorious victory. Their Creator endowed them with no such talents. But they learned the important lesson of recognizing their limitations and of perfecting their lives in their circumscribed spheres. They studied themselves and strove faithfully to carry out the parting injunction which Polonius gave to Laertes, "This above all, to thine own self be true."

Conscious that a misfit in life is fatal, they showed wisdom in relating themselves to their duties. Men like other forms of creation render services of different kinds. The lark charms us with her song; the ox serves us by bearing burdens; the horse delights us with its strength and speed. But men who are wise toward beasts are often foolish toward themselves. Multitudes drag themselves to the factory or field who should move swiftly toward the forum. Other multitudes chafe and fret in the office when their desire is for the streets or fields. How pathetic are the wrecks of men who have thus chosen unwisely. No man can follow a course from mere caprice or whim. His first duty is to study himself and until he knows his possibilities and limitations, success will be for him, unattainable.

Man comes into this world with his racial endowment, a degree of vital force and mentality, an aptitude in some direction and a temperament peculiarly his own. These are quantities fixed and unalterable. No heart renderings can change a two talent nature into a ten talent man. No agony of effort can add a cubit to the stature. The eagle flies over a chasm as easily as an ant crawls over a crack in the ground. Once an oak, always an oak. A man may rebel against his temperament and circumstances but he can not alter them though in trying he may break his heart.

But why should anyone seek to be other than he is? The all-wise

Creator has endowed everyone with traits that cannot be duplicated the world over. He has stamped every human being with his own individuality. Each child born into the world is unique—as new as was the first arrival upon this planet. In so fashioning each, a new creature filled with its own delightful and mysterious possibilities, the Creator hath wrought with consummate skill, for man is the masterpiece of the Divine Workman.

Henry Van Dyke says that one of the strongest characteristics of man is his fondness for variety. It is the individual element that destroys the monotony of human-kind and affords a diversity so full of charm and fascination. Yet we daily see people who so undervalue this gift as to despise it and strive to imitate someone else. They copy another's speech and manner, they refuse to act except as someone else acts, and they attire themselves in dress as nearly like some one else as possible, making of themselves figures at the same time ludicrous and pathetic for they have belittled their own greatness and heaped insult upon the God who stamped them with an individuality. In despising this divine gift they have betrayed an unmanly and cowardly spirit, a vague desire for help, a wish to lean upon someone else. And if they cherish this tendency it will soon make of them human parasites, as despicable as the plant which attaches itself to another and saps the life of its host.

One of the most loathesome of these human parasites that so often flourishes is developed from the man who in base dependence relies for his rank in society upon the glory of a proud ancestry. Noble ancestry is a glorious heritage. Every American looks back with pride upon the sturdy character of the founders of our nation. Tonight our minds revert especially to the little band of Pilgrim Fathers who hold a place of so high honor in the great American heart. We have a right to be proud of them, for no state was ever founded by a more heroic people and no people were ever moved by nobler motives. But unless we measure up to their sincerity of purpose and loftiness of aim we will bring dishonor to their memory and lower the standard they struggled to maintain. It is for us to augment their fame, rather than to dim its lustre.

What then does the world expect of a man, or Who's who in society? It is he who under all circumstances, no matter what the odds against him, is unswervingly true to himself. It is the ten talent man making ten talent achievements. It is the two talent man making two talent achievements. Nature has bestowed her gifts lavishly upon but few. Most of us are called to do but little, but to do it well. Of us the world expects nothing more than that we keep our narrow houses in order.

When society points out Who's Who, she shows you a man who carefully guards his individuality, who does not despise and fling it away, and foolishly appropriate to himself the talents of others. Although their talents seem better in his eyes they may ill befit him and make him look as ridiculous as a servant arrayed in his master's clothing. But society shows you a man who avers himself and does not imitate, who develops his talent and honors the Maker who has implanted that gift within him.

Again society shows you, not a man who makes a vain boast of a proud ancestry, who leans upon it and claims recognition because of it. She shows you a self respecting, self reliant man who scorns to accept what he has not earned, scorns to receive any honor that his own name has not won him. With Emerson he says, "He is base who receives favors and renders none."

To be among those recognized by society requires a man who in the dignity of independence, makes the circuit of his life in his own orbit, who cherishes and develops his individuality and relies for society's approbation upon his own integrity. Who's Who possesses a self reliant, well-rounded, majestic manhood, for he has perfected the idea of the infinite Mind in his creation.

The Conquest of the Stars

The price paid for inventions and discoveries is enormously large. The sacrifice of time, labor and suffering, which has revealed to mankind its needs, is immeasurably great. Every great discovery has grown out of dire need. In the great struggle for survival, it has been necessary for man to improvise means to diminish the difficulty of the struggle. In one great science alone has the discovery resulted, not from physical, social or political needs, but from intellectual needs. Astronomical discoveries have been occasioned, not by the struggle for existence, but by the delight of scholars in the mysterious and infinite. Man from his creation has observed the vast universe with wonder and with admiration, and with a desire to unravel its marvelous mysteries.

Human genius is bound by its finiteness. It seems as though it would not be able to grasp much beyond the terrestrial. The effort of the human mind to seize as its own product the enormities of the universe resolves itself into the old problem of the struggle of mind and matter, the infinite and the finite. It is remarkable, however, how much power human genius has over the celestial sphere. Problems of enormous figure have presented themselves. Solution after solution has followed in rapid succession. The results of the problems may be beyond human conception, but they are doubtless correct. In no department of study is accuracy and care of more importance. The closest observations are necessary for accurate results, for the error of one inch may mean a difference of many million miles in the final result.

The eager desire to comprehend the mysteries of the bright orbs has clung to man from his creation,—a period of six thousand years. In this limitless field of investigation, human genius has won its greatest victories, in spite of the fact that at each new problem it is handicapped anew. Generation after generation has swelled the stream of discovery by its contribution. The very beginning of astronomy seem to have originated in the study of the motions of the moon, and of the different phenomena which it causes. Copernicus, first, in the fifteenth century discovered that the sun was the center of the solar system. But several more centuries were required to determine the places of the stellar worlds of the heavens,

This issue is a testimony to the fact that there is at least one organized movement in our college—the banding together of a number of our students for the cultivation of friendship and the development of the spirit of co-operation that is necessary to make any social group move along without friction toward some given end—in this case, the cultivation of literary talent and mutual improvement. We rejoice in the splendid success of Clio and see in it a great triumph for organized effort, which is sometimes in want at Lebanon Valley.

The enormous work of conquering the smaller links in the great chain of the universe, was left to the pioneer astronomer, William Herschel, who was second only to Newton. His career is one of unusual interest. He was born in Hanover 1738. William was by far the most accomplished of his nine brothers and sisters, with the possible exception of his sister, Caroline. He attended the garrison school at Hanover, where he displayed his great love for learning. He was also a musician in the Hanoverians Guards of which his father was band-master. He enlisted in the army for the Seven Year's War, but after the first battle, deserted, having decided that fighting would not be his profession. With the consent of his parents he fled to England where he attained prominence as a musician, and there he also became interested in astronomy. With every observation interest grew, and it is said that he would observe the heavens after a musical concert, listening to the “music of the spheres” with its deep and solemn harmony. In order that he should not lose a moment of time in his observations, his devoted sister, Caroline, fed him and read to covered many star clusters, over two thousand nebulae, and about seventy million stars. His sister Caroline was appointed his assistant and she would sit beside him as he dictated to her what he saw. Miss Clerke thus describes Herschel's enthusiasm. “The thermometer might descend below zero, ink might freeze, mirrors might crack, but provided the stars shone, he and his sister worked on from dusk to dawn.”

“He labored on thus for many years, but finally the strain began to be too much for even his strong nerves. In 1822, he died, unsatisfied with what he had done in spite of an unparalleled career of achievement.” Like Newton, he never boasted of his wonderful discoveries. His sister survived him fifteen years, dying at the advanced age of ninety-seven years.

One of the greatest of Herschel's discoveries was that the stars too, are in motion. They are united by the laws of gravitation, and exhibit the wonderful spectacle of stupendous globes moving in obedience to the same influences which hold the planets in their orbits, and guide the comets in their eccentric career. He also found a method for determining the distance of stars. He aimed to penetrate the deepest portions of the Milky Way, and not only aimed, but penetrated to its deepest portions.

What a vast and mighty Universe has been revealed to the mind of man, under the pioneer leadership of William Herschel. It is a Universe without bounds, without beginning or end in time, a Universe in which the Earth is but an absolutely, insignificant atom. Modern astronomy has also shown, what a marvelous height may be attained by the human mind, chained to a little, revolving globule lost in the rays of a star, yet able to span the vast spaces of the Universe, to weigh the stars, and to predict celestial motions. The romance of astronomy is more romantic than any romance, more fascinating than any story. It is destined to become “the chief educator and emancipator of the human race.”

Astronomy gives examples of Infinity and Eternity and leads us into him that the monotony might be broken. She had given up excellent prospects of a career of a public singer in order to assist her brother in his great life-work. Because of his poverty, he was not able to buy a telescope and sacrificed much time and labor in the construction of one. His discovery of the planet, Uranus, changed his entire career. King George III hearing of his discovery, immediately summoned him to London, and conferred on him the title of the King's Astronomer with the small salary of 200 pounds per annum. He cut himself adrift from the profession of music and gave his entire time to the observations of astronomy. From dusk to dawn he swept the heavens with his mighty reflectors, in the mirrors of which the stars seemed to move in glorious procession. He dis-

the realms of things divine and eternal, for

"The heavens declare the glory of God,
And the firmament showeth His handiwork."

The Typical American Virtue

America, though the youngest, is without a doubt, the greatest nation on the face of the globe. Who would gainsay this oft-repeated statement? The causes of this supremacy however have been the source of much discussion and wide difference of opinion. Why does the United States stand thus preeminent among the nations of the earth? Why is it that she has reached such an exalted position in the science of government,—that she has attained such phenomenal success in finance and that she has acquired such an enviable reputation in the art of warfare? To what quality is she indebted for being the organizer of new movements, such as the construction of the Panama Canal, or even the establishment of a national thanksgiving such as we celebrate today? A question like this cannot be answered without careful thought and consideration.

In the constituency of our population there is represented every type and every race which the history of civilization records. The combination of these elements and their gradual fusion has produced a characteristic which is typical of America alone. As the Englishman is noted for dogged persistence, the Irishman for quick wit, the German for stolidity and the Frenchman for alertness, so the American is characterized by a less obvious quality, but one to which the almost phenomenal growth and development of the country to a very great degree is due. To the possession of this quality may be attributed the majority of the main features of American history.

Nearly three hundred years ago today, a little band of men and women, bravest of the brave, tried to forget one year of incredible hardship with its discouraging results by setting apart a day of thanksgiving for the first ingathering of the harvest. For one long year they had lived in rude huts, in the cold climate of New England separated from friends and from homes of ease and comfort. On these shores their lives were in constant danger from the attacks of Indians; in the homeland they had lived in comparative safety. Here, they often lacked the bare necessities of life; while there they were supplied not with these only, but with luxuries besides. What then, caused this little band of sturdy Puritans to set apart this day of special thanksgiving? Was it a conviction that their blessings had been more bountiful than ever before and that they owed a special offering of praise and gratitude? Though these pilgrims were happy in their new home it was probably more on account of a determination to be so, than through a realization of actual contentment. They looked with scorn upon the idea of venturing to their mother country for they were determined to hide their disappointments and to conceal their feelings of regret. And by putting on a bold front and a brave spirit they showed to their friends at home and to the world at large that they had come to America to stay, and to establish in a land of the free, for themselves and their posterity, a home for the brave. This was the first manifestation of the typical American virtue "Bluff".

The same quality was exemplified by Napoleon in his Egyptian campaign, then confronted by certain conspirators against his life. He said coolly, "Soldiers, you are Frenchmen! You are too many to assassinate me and too few to intimidate me." The men withdrew, cowed. Thus as "Bluff" saved the life of the great leader, so the same virtue saved the life of our country. America was victorious in the Revolution not because of her superior resources, but because of the courageous spirit, the brave and bold manner and the confident air assumed by her generals. The American army was composed of a mere handful of raw recruits, untrained and unskilled in the art of war. The English army comprised thousands of soldiers, not mere farmers and laborers, led by able and efficient generals. But "Bluff" aided by an awakening patriotism won the day and brought to a successful close, the greatest Revolution in the tide of times.

Consider for a moment the great financiers of the Nation. Nearly all of them began as poor clerks or even as errand boys and by means of the same splendid quality worked themselves up to positions of prominence in the economic world. Andrew Carnegie furnished a typical example. None even of the mighty makers of their own fortunes began closer to absolute zero, than did this little Scotch lad. He began on ten cents a day and through the consciousness of his own worth and his ability to advertise himself, he gradually raised himself to a position, observe, to plan and to construct.

But not only in National affairs has "Bluff" achieved successes, for even personal freedom and influence are often based on this virtue. How many men there are who have been carried through the world on the flowery beds of ease of a Ph. D. or an L. L. D. How many men there are in the Hall of Fame whose sole assets were a silvery tongue and an assertive self assurance! How many students there are in our colleges who have won the approval of their professors more through their ability to "Bluff" it, than through honest work! Even in the professor's chair may be found those who depend on this virtue to supply what is lacking in thorough preparation. Yet not in Education only is Bluff generally conceded to be the talisman of success, but the man in every profession who can blow his own horn the loudest and longest is the most likely to reach the pinnacle of riches, respectability and honor.

Lord Bacon once said to James I. of England, "I know that I am censured for some conceit of my ability and worth, but I pray your majesty, impute it to my desire; for "possunt quæ posse videntur;"—they are able because they seem to be able.

Let us not be misunderstood. There is a medium between the two extremes—between noisy blatant pretentiousness, and the fawning humility of a Uriah Heep. Because there is danger of overrating one's real value, it does not follow that he should under-rate his own worth. Of the two an excess of modesty is worse than an excess of pride, for an excess of modesty is merely an excess of pride in another form. Self-confidence makes ability available. "Bluff" working towards reason makes a scholar; towards imagination, an artist and towards the gift of speech an orator. A man's character is the result of his true worth, the sum of his intrinsic qualities; but whatever of influence he has from his character is multiplied, extended and strengthened by this typical American Virtue, "Bluff."

One of the most pleasing features of the program was the reading given by Miss Helen Brightbill, who presented a cutting from "To Have and to Hold," a synopsis of which follows:

"CAPTAIN PERCY'S ADVOCATE"

"Jocelyn Lee a ward of the King, in order to escape marriage with Lord Carnal whom she hated fled to James town where she married Captain Ralph Percy. She was followed by Lord Carnal, bearing a command from the King for her return, who ignored her marriage and openly paid court to her. After many adventures which follow their attempt to flee from Lord Carnal, chance puts Lady Jocelyn, her husband, Captain Percy, Jerency Sparrow, a Jamestown Minister with Lord Carnal aboard a private ship which is captured by an English vessel bound for Jamestown with a new Governor on board."

Miss Brightbill held the keen attention of her audience throughout her selection. She gave a very good interpretation of her characters and the hearty applause of the audience showed their thorough appreciation of the number.

Not the least enjoyable part of the program were the music numbers. The solo by Merle Turby and the chorus by eight members of the society thoroughly delighted the audience. The organ solo was a new feature on the Anniversary program and the fact that it was rendered by a member of Clio made the hearers appreciate it all the more. The two-piano duet also reflected credit on the work that the conservatory is doing this year.

The Students' Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day was observed at Lebanon Valley College in a manner befitting the nature of the occasion. Quite a number of the boys and girls who could conveniently do so, went to their homes, feeling, no doubt, that there could be no real Thanksgiving away from the home-folks, but those of us who were here have decided that they were mistaken, after all. True, there was no spirit of revelry but rather a spirit of reverence, and of the two important factors which are necessary to a successful Thanksgiving,—a bountiful dinner and hearty comradeship, there was no lack.

The forenoon was spent quietly, and there was not much stirring except for a few boys who are never content unless they are at their very best. And in order that they might be at their best at the chief function of the day, they spent the morning trying to kick a hole in the football. Others, with a different turn of mind, felt it their duty to rest in absolute quiet until the crucial moment should arrive, while a number of the helpful ones gathered at the dining hall, which, before they left had assumed holiday attire. The hall looked very pretty dressed in white and blue, trimmed with college and class pennants, banners, etc.

Of course every one waited anxiously for the ringing of the bell, and answered its summons without waiting for further urging. The tables were groaning under a weight of good things, as all sensible tables should on an occasion of this kind. But the burdens soon became lighter and the groaning of the tables ceased, only to be taken up instead by some of those who had relieved the tables of their weightiest burdens. A glance to the following menu which was served will show that great things were expected of us that day. But we rose at the occasion nobly and succeeded in disposing of considerable quantities of the various good things.

The Menu:

Roast turkey
Giblet Sauce
Cranberry Sauce
Scalloped Oysters
Fried sweet potatoes

Celery Olives
Malaga grapes
Bananas Oranges
Ice cream Cake
Mixed nuts
Cream chocolates
Chocolate almonds
Coffee.

This part of the program being disposed of, speeches were next in order. Mr. Guy Wingert was toastmaster, and right well did he fill his part, introducing the various speakers with stories that were not only appropriate but exceedingly well told. Miss Carrie Light responded for the seniors to the toast, "The Review of Reviews." She reviewed the "Review of Reviews" with a review that was a review; John Leininger '13, told us about the "Co-educational System." This is John's hobby and he gave us some advice worth heeding; D. E. Young '14, toasted "Our Host," outlining what an occasion of this kind should mean to us; Miss Ruth Engle told of the prospects of the freshman class. The future of the class looks good to her, and no doubt everything she said will come true. The Reverend Mr. Weaver, treasurer of the college, was next called upon. He pointed out, in a good-natured way, the chief "short comings" of the boys and girls at L. V. C. All the speeches abounded in wit, good natured badinage and well-told stories, and were thoroughly enjoyed.

After singing some college songs and giving some of the yells, the girls paid their respects to the boys' dormitory by making their annual tour of inspection of the boys' rooms.

Football Men Banquet

Last Tuesday night Manager Butterwick banquetted the football squad. After the banquet a handsome Elgin Gold Watch was presented to Henry L. Wilder, the coach, for his faithful service in dealing with the green bunch of material that was given him to develop. Coach Wilder has always had the interest of his men at heart and its appreciation by the squad was shown by the presentation of this little remembrance. The development of the men under Wilder has been short of marvelous and with his new material as a nucleus Lebanon Valley will in a course of a year or two come back into her old football form as in the days of the 1902 and 1903 teams which took the scalps of their old rivals Susquehanna, Gettysburg, and Ursinus. Under the supervision of the most rigid progressive and constructive athletic policy which the Athletic Executive Committee have determined to carry out with the pledged support of the student body who have petitioned for a compulsory athletic fee, and of the faculty and board of Trustees, almost without a single exception.

Coach Wilder in accepting the gift expressed his pleasure of working with the boys and thanked them for their faithfulness. He said he hoped that the same spirit shown this year would continue and that the advisability of continuing football at Lebanon Valley would be demonstrated in the next two years.

Miss Florence Roland, of Reading and Mrs. Bishop Bailey, of Hagerstown, Md., both ex-Clios, together visited their friends at Lebanon Valley last week to attend the Anniversary.

Paul and Earle Loser, ex-'13, of Muhlenburg college spent their Thanksgiving vacation in Annville.

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

JUNIOR PLAY WAS A COMPLETE SUCCESS

The class of 1913 presented Goldsmith's Comedy "She Stoops to Conquer" Friday, December the 8th. A Junior play used to be an annual affair but since 1908 no play had been given. The class of 1913 took it up and the finish was a grand success in every way. The parts were well taken by each member of the caste. The amateur actors and actresses did splendidly. The audience showed their appreciation of the good work. The caste had worked hard and faithfully under the direction of Miss Adams, Head of the Oratory Department, and much credit is due her. The entire class appreciates her services to the utmost. Miss Turby, soloist and Miss Engle, pianist, furnished the music between the acts.

The Cast — Sir Charles Marlow, George A. Williams; Young Marlow, his son, Landis R. Klinger; Squire Harcastle, a friend to Sir Charles, Victor Mulhollen; George Hastings, friend to Marlow, Chas. G. Ulrich; Tony Lumpkin, son of Mrs. Harcastle, G. A. Richie; Diggory, V. L. Heffelfinger; Roger, John E. Sherk; Dick, E. K. Boughter — Servants to Harcastle; Stingo, Landlord of the "Three Pigeons," G. A. Williams; Slang, Boaz G. Light; Muggins, John E. Sherk; Aminadab, E. K. Boughter; Twist, Frank Shearer — Friends to Tony; Mrs. Harcastle, Lottie Spessard; Kate Harcastle, daughter to Harcastle, Clara K. Horn; Constance Neville, niece to Mrs. Harcastle, Edith M. Lehman; Dolly, a maid, Sara E. Zimmerman.

STAR COURSE

The Dunbar Company, consisting of a Male Quartet and Bell Ringers, will appear in the Engle Conservatory of Music, Annville, Thursday, December 14. This company is past "promoting." Their history is their strongest endorsement. They have given nearly two thousand concerts on tours carrying them more than three hundred thousand miles, far enough to encircle the globe twelve times, to every part of the Union, Canada, Great Britain and the continent. Three concerts were given aboard great steamships in mid ocean. At least forty-four weeks of each year is given to concerts, with no open nights, the other eight weeks being required for special rehearsals and coaching. 75 per cent. of their engagements are return.

Their equipment is the finest money can buy, their present magnificent carillon of two hundred bells having been made under their personal supervision abroad. Most of their music is in manuscript, not published, much of which is composed or arranged by members of the company. Mr. Ralph Dunbar is conceded to be master of the 'cello. Wherever they give their program they receive nothing but praise and congratulations.

The Sophroneans

There has been considerable discussion since the organizing of the new literary society, by the students in the academy, as to its merits, its purpose and its chances of becoming a permanent institution. Some have assumed a hostile attitude toward it, evidently on the grounds that "we never had a society like that before." However, the need of just such an organization has long been felt. There are too many men here for

MRS. RALPH LEWARS DIED ON SATURDAY

FORMERLY MISS BLACK, AN ALUMNA OF L. V. C.

Mrs. Ralph Lewars, formerly of Annville, died in the German Hospital at Philadelphia on Saturday at 10 a. m., following an operation. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, William, not yet two years of age.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Lewar's aunt, Mrs. Caroline Radabaugh, on Main street. Services will be held in the First Lutheran Church, in charge of Rev. Paul D. Witman. Burial in Evergreen cemetery.

The late Mrs. Lewars who was Miss Ella Black before marriage, was widely known at Annville, where she had many friends who will sincerely regret her death. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Black, of Annville, who died some six years ago.

Mrs. Lewars was at one time a student at Lebanon Valley College, and was very popular among the students. She graduated from the music department with the class of '03.

Rev. A. N. Horn and Chas. Horn, of Red Lion, attended the Junior play last Friday evening. They were the guest of Miss Clara Kee Horn, '13.

Mrs. Eliot and Miss Linnie Gillan, of Harrisburg were the guests of Miss Florence Clippinger, '13, on Saturday.

Editorial

We are gathered together here in a social group that is distinctly unique in its workings, and whose purpose is that of education. College groups are different from other groups in many respects. They differ in the nature and character of the customs and traditions that grow up within them and college students are often rightfully criticised for the liberties which they assume. But colleges are to be congratulated for that spirit which is frequently called "college-spirit" which brings the whole institution into an effective, co operative whole. By "college spirit" we do not mean only those impulses that induce a man to yell himself hoarse at the various inter-collegiate contests but those feelings of reference that compel each member of the group to rise immediately to any emergency that may offer opportunities for greater things for the institution. No man can help admiration for the man who is willing to defend his institution whenever he may be called upon to do it, be he a student, or a professor, or executive. Every institution must necessarily cultivate most carefully that spirit of solidarity if it will live and grow. Those institutions that have succeeded in fostering that spirit the best are the institutions that are counting for great things in our educational world.

Education is primarily an adjustment of the individual for the problems that he will be expected to meet. It is safe to assert that the main aim in education is to instil ideals that will function as judgments. It would be difficult to overestimate the importance of ideals in civilized life. They are the dominant forces in all the great movements of history. To quote an educational writer:

"The esprit de corps that is expressed in loyalty to one's school or college is another type of ideal that functions effectively in spurring one on to greater effort. The college or the university that can imbue its students with such loyalty is doing much more to equip them for the battle of life than the institution that simply instructs, no matter how faithfully that instruction may be imparted. It is largely for this reason that the personal influence of teacher and professor counts for far more in the long run than the mere mechanical advantages of libraries and laboratories and work shops."

Athletic Association Officers

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John F. Leininger; Secretary, Warren Hayes; Football Manager, G. A. Richie; Assistant Football Manager, H. E. Snavelly; Track Manager, Ed. Smith; Assistant Track Manager, Paul Strickler; Tennis Manager, Russell Weidler; Assistant Tennis Manager, Lottie Spessard.

them all to be members of the two societies and at the same time have an opportunity to participate in the program often enough to receive very much benefit. Then too, even though there are a few men in the academy who can make a very creditable showing among college men, yet the great majority of them, having had no training whatever along this particular line, upon being suddenly thrust into a society of college men, can do neither themselves nor the society justice. The new society will give the academy student an opportunity for just this training, and this, we understand, was the primary reason for its being organized. The new society is in no way a rival of the old organizations and should not be looked upon as such, but is a place of preparation for the work in the college societies, just as the academy is a place of preparation for the regular college work.

Things Worth While

There are a great many activities in college continually clamoring for the student's time and attention, a great many more than can receive any time or attention from any one student. Practically each one of these activities is worthy of consideration, and will result in benefitting the student giving his time to them. Some, naturally, are more beneficial than others, and any given line of activities which would be best for one student might not be good for another. It becomes the duty of each student to thoroughly canvass the situation and decide for himself what are the things that he can best afford to miss, and what are the things that he can not afford to do without. And having once fully decided what will contribute most toward making his life complete, the only consistent thing to do is to see that that particular thing gets its proper share of attention.

Is it worth your while to put all your time on your studies athletics and literary societies, and leave absolutely no place in your schedule for keeping in touch with God and for developing that nobler moral and spiritual part of your being, without which you can not be your best self?

The Sunday afternoon Christian Association meetings, and the Tuesday evening prayer meetings, if you attend them and help to make them a success, will positively do you more permanent good than anything else that you might do during that time. Everybody knows this to be true—you know that it is true. Yet when the time for these meetings comes we rake our brains for an excuse to stay away, and as a result we are the losers and the meetings are not what they might be if we did our part. Now no one is going to coax and beg you to attend these meetings, but you may rest assured that you are wanted there, and if you honestly mean to get the very best, to do your very best, and to be your very best, you can in no way better further that aim, than by attending the religious meetings for the students.

The following statistics show just how many of the boys are supporting these meetings. Present number of members, 60; Professors, 1; Seniors, 15; Juniors, 8; Sophomores, 10; Freshmen, 18; Preps, 8.

Number of men in Senior class, 17; in Junior Class, 13; in Sophomore Class, 26; Freshmen Class, 23.

Average number of men attending weekly prayer meeting, 15; Sunday meeting, 16; joint session 20. Total average, 17 of whom there are 4 Seniors, 3 Juniors, 2 Sophomores, 3 Freshmen, and 5 Preps.

Notice

Every week the College News Staff holds a meeting to discuss matters pertaining to the paper, and to plan the work of the staff. These meetings are for all the members of the staff and also for the advisor and it would be a splendid thing for the College News if all these people could arrange to attend the staff meetings. We have not had a full attendance any time this year. We need the cooperation of every member on the staff in order that we may continually raise the standard of our little paper. Again, there have been two vacancies on the staff all year. We have repeatedly called the attention of the proper persons to this fact. We need the help of these two extra persons and we sincerely trust that the appointments may be made at an early date.

Lebanon College Scares Army

The Lebanon College basket-ball team opened its first season for several years by playing the fast team representing the United States Military Academy at West Point. This was the Army's first game and won 40-21. The Lebanon Valley team was handicapped by the changes in the intercollegiate rulings, especially the "out-of-bounds" rule, which permits any man to recover the ball except the man who put it out, and the rule of dribbling which allows only one hand and only to advance the ball. This was one of Lebanon Valley's strong points and manager Reed is proud of the splendid showing made by his team. The game was interesting and exciting and the Lebanon boys made the Army hustle for the victory. Score:

Ministerial Association

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the College Ministerium met at the home of Prof. Shroyer Thursday evening, Dec. 2, 1911. The Association has been quite fortunate this year to secure very able speakers who address them from time to time on vital subjects.

The Rev. Dr. B. F. Daugherty, pastor of the Trinity U. B. Church of Lebanon, addressed the Association on Thursday evening, using as his subject "Church Loyalty. Rev. Daugherty, it will be remembered is a graduate of this institution, being a member of the class of '89. He was Prof. of Latin for some time and also President of the Westfield College

In his address, Thursday evening he discussed very ably the subject of church loyalty, showing I. The Necessity of Church Loyalty. II. How can we Cultivate it. III. The Results of Church Loyalty.

"To have Church Loyalty," he said, "we must have church spirit." This must be cultivated by preaching. Not in a narrow, bigotted sense, but only in the sense of loyalty to Christ. We can serve Christ best by being loyal to our own church, by husbanding the fruit of our own labors—by a better trained and more efficient ministry.

He gave evidence of our church steadily advancing to this point. He said it is the exception now for ministers to enter conference without a College or Seminary training or in most cases both.

The result of Church Loyalty is a better, higher, nobler self-consciousness of our own denomination—and of our mission—it will give us greater momentum to carry the gospel of Christ to the uttermost parts of the earth.

He showed that throughout our church, matters along this line are improving. He said, "at present, Lebanon Valley has the largest representation of any of the colleges at our Seminary, at Dayton, Ohio.

His address was well received and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

After a general discussion, Prof. and Mrs. Shroyer, tendered the Association a reception.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 18, 1911, in the Assembly Hall of the Library. It is expected Dr. Keister will address the association at that meeting.

The interest manifested in this association is constantly increasing, and the association is to be congratulated and encouraged in the good work they are doing.

Y. M. C. A.

Sunday's meeting was but a substitute for the regular joint session program that was to have been held but for which the proper arrangements had not been made. Owing to the fact that the organization has no key to its assembly room the meeting was held in the chapel. In the absence of a regular leader the president presided and the hour was devoted to an informal discussion of the problems of the association. The principal difficulty discussed was the matter of getting those fellows to come to our meetings who indolently loaf away their time in their rooms on Sunday afternoon at our meeting hour.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon proved to be one of the most spirited held so far this year. It was led by Miss Helen Brightbill, who chose for her subject, "Little Faults That Spoil Our Lives". The leader presented her topic in a very interesting and profitable way, pointing out little faults that are liable to mar particularly, the lives of college girls.

The subject called forth a very animated discussion in which the girls very frankly spoke of their little pet sins. The meeting was by no means pessimistic yet it very forcibly presented some of the little failings in our lives that do a great deal toward hindering our efficiency.

Lebanon Valley

Defeats Co. H

Manager Reed continued to try out his basket ball material last Wednesday in a game with the Co. H. Professional team at Lebanon. Several new men were in the lineup; Schmidt, center. Henry Kreider, guard, and Bob Whitman, Forward. It was one of the fastest games played on the Armory floor for several years. Co. H started scoring, Fields and Moore each making a field goal. Then Lebanon Valley scored. Strickler and Whitman each contributed two points which tied the score. Lebanon Valley made a spurt, and at the end of the first half the score was 22-17 in her favor. Co. H. started with a rush and brought the score 22-21. L. V. gradually gained and at the end of the game the score was 59-30. The game was a close one. The superior playing of Lebanon Valley had the spectators standing at several periods of the game. Whitman scored the most for Lebanon Valley, making seventeen points. Strickler was very close with 14 points. Schmidt made a good showing, scoring three goals himself and holding his man, Moore, one of the fastest on the Co. H team to three goals. Morrison and Kreider both played an excellent defensive game. This game gave Lebanon Valley an excellent reputation in Lebanon, defeating a team that has won every game that it has played this year. The game was rather rough. Billman, captain of the C. H team, was put out of the game

Coach Wilder Weds Miss Ruth A. Schropp

As a sequel to a pretty college romance which began at Lebanon Valley College, Annville, several years ago when both were students, was the wedding at noon today at Elizaneth, N. J., of Mr. Henry L. Wilder, of Hingham, Mass., and Miss Ruth A. Schropp, daughter of Former County Treasurer and Mrs. A. B. Schropp, of 86 Church street, Lebanon, Pa.

The wedding was private. Miss Daisy Schropp, sister, was the bridesmaid.

TOUR NEW ENGLAND

After the wedding an informal reception followed by a wedding dinner was also held at Elizabeth. Later the couple left on a tour through New England. They will visit the groom's parents at Hingham, Mass. They will live at Steelton and will be "at home" after January 1.

Coach Wilder is a graduate of Dickinson College and will receive his degree from Lebanon Valley next June. He most successfully coached L. V.'s football team this fall, doing marvelous work with the new material given him. He is at present employed in a responsible position with the Pennsylvania Steel Company at Steelton.

The bride is a young woman of charming personality. She has for some time been active with the congregation and Sunday School of Trinity U. B. church.

The "News" extends to them most hearty congratulations and best wishes.

Our Athletic Field

The treasurer announces that in response to the request sent to the friends of the college for funds to be applied on the Athletic Field, sufficient cash and pledges were received to justify the repairing of the grand stand.

This was accomplished and the bill for the work and material has been received which aggregates $83.79 or $8.79 more than the estimate of expense as given in the circular letter of September 6, 1911.

The fence will be repaired as soon as sufficient cash and pledges are at hand to cover estimated cost of rebuilding and repairing the fence.

Limits of Vacation

Christmas vacation will extend over a period of two weeks beginning at 7:45 a. m., Thursday, December 1 and ending at 8:45 a. m., Wednesday, January 3, 1912.

Girls' Glee Club

One dozen of the Girls' Glee Club drove to Cornwall, Friday evening, to take part in the program which was given at the Cornwall Township Institute, held in the Methodist church of that place. The young ladies of the club rendered their selections in such a pleasing manner that the audience called for three encores of the five selections scheduled for them to sing. Many people who heard the club pronounced their singing excellent.

The club returned the same night arriving at home 1 a. m. very tired but much pleased with the trip and the fun they had. Those who made up the club were: First Soprano, Myrle Turby, Helen Brightbill, Edith Gingrich; Second Soprano, Florence Christeson, Edith Lehman, Marie Light; First Alto, Ora Bachman, Ruth Engle, Sara Zimmerman; Second Alto, Mary Christeson, Mary Spay, Lottie Spessard; Prof. Marble.

Contribution

Oliver Butterwick, Manager "1912 Bizarre," contributed a copy of last year's publication to the exhibit that L. B. Harnish is collecting for the State Educational Department Museum at Harrisburg where all the "up-to-date" colleges have a representative exhibit.

Council Notes

According to the second article of the Student Government Constitution any person or persons having grievances shall present same to the president of the Senior-Junior Council in writing. It seems that students having grievances have not familiarized themselves with the constitution so as to bring such grievances before the proper authorities.

It is the policy of the Council so far as lies within their power to prevent the violations of any rules, but in case violations are made without the knowledge of the Council, we deem it harsh criticism to be held responsible for such violations. And when such violations occur, and no evidence presented to the Council, we cannot convict on mere supposition. We are trying to profit by serious mistakes of this kind made in the past.

Grievances of this kind may have existed, which have not according to the constitution been presented to the Council except indirectly through the faculty. This Council has listened to the complaints and appreciated the advice given them by the Committee of the faculty. We have made such investigations as we were advised and met with better results than we anticipated. We acted on what we knew to be facts and decided accordingly.—

Poster Scraps

Early Wednesday morning the Sophomores placed posters over town telling of the Freshmen's narrow escape from the Sophomores when they went to York for their banquet directly from their homes before vacation ended.

These posters seemed to anger the Freshmen to such an extent that they wished to do their devotions from the gallery of the chapel. After chapel exercises the two classes met and gave vent to their feelings. The scrap was a lively one and afforded much excitement to observers. The Freshmen outnumbered the Sophomores but the scrap was pretty evenly matched, making it difficult to say who came out victorious. These scraps liven things up around the school and are looked upon as a necessity.

for slugging. The following is the lineup:

Lebanon Valley		Co. H.
Strickler	Forward	Smith
Whitman	Forward	Fields
Schmidt	Center	Moore
Morrison	Guard	Billman
Kreider	guard	Frantz

Goals from field, Strickler 7; Whitman, 8; Schmidt, 3; Morrison, 1; Smith, 5; Fields, 2; Moore, 3; Billman, 1; Frantz, 1; Goals from foul, Whitman, 1 Smith, 6. Manager Reed announces his next game as Wednesday, December 20, with the Lehigh University team at Bethlehem. This is one of the fastest teams in the state, having been defeated by Princeton alone 3-31. Muthart, Lehigh's center, played professional ball in the Central League for two years and is now taking up work at Lehigh again and around him is built a team that is capable of playing the best game it knows how. We all wish success to our team and hope it comes home Wednesday with a creditable showing.

The first game after Xmas will be January 12, with Gettysburg college at Lebanon, and the regular lineup will be in this game. It is the hope of Manager Reed that the students will give him better support than they did for the Co. H. game at which there were thirteen college students. Although 13 is a lucky number and we won, try and make it 130 next time because we need your support, both financially and as the outward manifestation of your college spirit.

You! Sophs and Freshmen!

Suppose you try sticking one of your posters on your own windows or doors and see how well you like the task of removing it. Then wonder why the good people of town are out of patience with you and with our school. There ought to be enough gray matter in your respective belfries to know that such deeds can do nothing but antagonize our townspeople and withhold from our institution their whole-hearted support.

Star Course

The third number of the Star Course was filled very ably by the "Dunbar Musical Company." This number, without doubt, was the best given so far this season.

The company consisted of Mr. J. M. Woods, first tenor; C. C. Robinson, second tenor; H. C. Dunbar, first bass and J. L. Felgar, second bass. All are accomplished singers with good voices and they were able to use them to the satisfaction of the large audience which greeted them in the Conservatory of Music, Thursday night. They were masters of the situation, when the Bomberger light plant took a ten minute rest, and held the attention of the audience, although it was in total darkness. They had a pleasing appearance on the stage which added much to the impression which they left.

Quartet, 'cello, vocal, flute and bell ringing selections constituted the program for the evening. Mr. Harry Dunbar gave some excellent impersonations, especially was this true in "Chawed On." The 'cello work of Mr. Wood is worthy of favorable comment. It is above the average 'cello work in this vicinity as was shown by his interpretation of the "Rosery." "The Paudelero," as sung by Mr. Felgar in his deep resonant voice was beautiful and highly pleasing to his audience. Mr. Robinson did the accompanying very ably. The entire program was well selected and rendered.

Piano and Song Recital

Miss Edith A. Gingrich, Conservatory, '11, gave a Piano and Song Recital at Youngsville, Pa., Friday, December 8, and at Sugar Grove, Pa., Tuesday, December 12. She was assisted by Prof. F. S. Smith, Director of the Conservatory at Sugar Grove Seminary, and Miss Ruth M. LeFevre, also of the Seminary.

Miss Gingrich was greeted by large and appreciative audiences at both places, and gave her numbers in a faultless manner. The program consisted of Popular and Classical Music, Songs in Costume, and Humorous Readings, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

Editorial

This number of the "News" closes our first term. We feel that it is about time that we take a vacation after our strenuous labors of the past four months. We bid you one and all a merry Xmas and a happy New Year.

Student's Opinion of Student Government

We publish elsewhere in these pages a short article from the Sr.-Jr. Council which we deem worthy of some comment.

In every college there are some features that are objectionable to some, doubtless to all, of the students and ours is no exception. It is not to be supposed that any institution is so fortunate and unique that both students and officers should not desire to improve it. That such dissatisfaction should exist is not alarming, but is rather hopeful in the extreme, but only too often such dissatisfactions are due to a lack of understanding of conditions and not to willful and unjust criticism.

Just recently student government has been severely criticised and the "News" as the representative of the student body must needs present its attitude toward the matter. From all available information, we are led to believe that Lebanon Valley was among the first to recognize the value of student government. At least we are in a position to say that student government was in force in our college when other institutions were tenaciously holding on to the old methods only to be convinced of their error within the last few years, when an immediate change was made and the same plan adopted. Therefore we say that our institution deserves no little credit for the foresight shown in the matter. But somehow student government has not been doing for us in the last few years what it seems to be doing for other institutions and we ask ourselves why such should be the case. As far as possible we shall endeavor to analyze the difficulty.

Within the last week the officers split with the Council on a matter of difference of opinion as to the criminality of certain conduct, in which case the majority of opinion seems to be in favor of the attitude taken by the council that no criminal act had been committed. Nevertheless, the officers saw fit to censure the representatives of the students and to reject their solution of the difficulty. This in itself the Council feels to be an indignity heaped upon its head, for seldom does a superior court in reviewing the verdict of an inferior court censure the inferior court. The attitude taken by the officers suggests nothing but censure with not a breath of encouragement, yea, not even of sympathy with the Council and the Students. And we reluctantly ask if any good can come of such a situation.

We, as students, have no sympathy for the policy of suppression and repression advocated by some. Such a policy has not a semblance of an argument in its favor under modern conditions. Such policy has not even an historical foundation. Our revolutionary fathers would not be governed by such a policy, nor are men likely to submit to it in the twentieth century.

Why all this disagreement? We believe that the fact is sometimes overlooked that we, college students, are men and are to be treated as men and not as children and students in a preparatory school. We regret beyond measure that we are never taken into a bit of confidence in matters that concern the welfare of our institution. We regret that some of our officers know little about us and yet persist in sitting in judgment upon us. If we were taken into the confidence of the officers of our institution and knew the exact conditions of the various situations and realized what such officers were doing to remove objectionable features, we could not help but feel interested and would aid rather than retard any plans for our college's advancement. As long as our officers make no effort along that line it is inevitable that friction will exist with a consequent reduction of the effectiveness of the institution. As far as we are concerned we do not see that any policy disliked by a majority of the students can be of much value to any institution. We feel that reasonable and conservative confidence could very profitably be followed.

Many students are lost every year to colleges because of the lack of "college spirit" and enthusiasm on the part of the students in the respective institutions. How splendid it would be for us if once the students were in complete accord with the officers and the officers with the students. Then when all realized that they were doing their very best for us we could say to our new or prospective student that even though we have not the best to be wished for, we will have better conditions, and that, very soon.

Last year when for a time we had no student government we felt in its absence and subsequent events taught us that justice is not always dealt to us. We would not have it understood that the students are entirely responsible for the difficulty—we are willing to assume 50 per cent of the burden but no more can be laid at our door. We appreciate the work of the Executive Committee in our behalf last spring and we trust they will continue their support. There are many things at Lebanon Valley that come nearer to ideal than in any other college. Can we have more of them?

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting was led by Russel Weidler who chose for his subject "The Worth While Gifts" and chose for his scripture lesson Luke 2:8-1.

This being the last meeting before Christmas he made it a lesson appropriate to the season and opened his remarks by relating a story of Christ, as a stranger, traveling through the country and the various kinds of receptions he received. He based most of his remarks upon "Worth While Gifts" and proceeded to show what gifts come under that head. The greatest gift one can give is himself, but in order that he be able to do this, he must have something to give himself, which is strength, both physical and mental—without this he can do very little that is worth while. Gifts should be given with a sincere heart and we should not think of temporal gifts alone.

We were glad to see an increase in the attendance at this meeting and we hope that after vacation the attendance will still increase.

Y. W. C. A.

Our last meeting of 1911 was conducted by Miss Helen Weidler. She had for her subject "Christmas Thoughts." The beautiful story of Christ's birth was used as a lesson. The leader in her interpretation described the scene most beautifully. She urged upon us to have the true Christmas spirit, the spirit of service. The true spirit was prominent during the remainder of the meeting, as it was the main theme for many of the remarks.

Farmers' Week

Farmers' Week at The Pennsylvania State College has become one of the established features of work in that practical institution. Many hundreds of the more progressive farmers of the state gather at State College during that week to listen to discussions of various phases of farming. This year the lectures will begin Wednesday, January 3rd. One hundred and ten lectures will be given by fifty-two scientists and practical men. Some of the most widely-known authorities in agriculture are on the program which is exceptionally good this year. Our readers should write to "School of Agriculture, State College, Pa." for programs that will inform them regarding the lecturers and their subjects. Anyone who has ever attended one of these Farmers' Week meetings knows their value to practical men, but there are other thousands of farmers who should avail themselves of this opportunity for meeting with the leaders in the best agricultural practices. This conference of farmers is divided into sections so that horticulturists, dairymen, animal-husbandrymen, general farmers, etc., may give all their time during the week to the particular line of subjects that interests them. Send for program and go to State College for this Farmers' Week.

Young Man!

If you are tall, good looking, and have musical ability as well as ability to earn a good wage; if you are a total abstainer and religiously inclined; if you bear the marks of a gentleman in your every day life and are considering matrimony, write to L. B. Harnish, Advertising Specialist, Annville, Pa., for particulars concerning correspondence with a lady whose intentions are to get married, if such a gentleman can be found to her liking.

Photograph of applicant with complete description of eyes, hair, size, age, build, and complexion must accompany all applications. It would be to the applicant's advantage to enumerate his accomplishments, educational and athletic training, and his intended occupation, also stating his qualifications in that line.

A Boost for "News" Adver- tising

We quote below a letter recently received by the manager which goes to prove indisputably that advertising in the "News" pays—

Annaville, Pa., Dec. 14

Mr. L. A. Rodas

Manager "College News"

My dear sir:—

It pays to advertise in the "College News". Today, only two days after placing an "ad" in your publication, I received an inquiry concerning an advertising scheme to secure a husband. This kind of scheme is very profitable to me and I feel satisfied with results and desire to continue my "ad" in the "News."

Respectfully yours

L. B. Harnish

Notice

We have decided to discontinue the issue of the "College News" for this year.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

AN ENROLLMENT FEE

We do not enroll teachers free. If we were to offer free membership, this Agency would soon be crowded with applicants; two-thirds of whom would be prompted chiefly by curiosity and would not be in earnest in their efforts to secure positions, and upon these, two-thirds of our time would consequently be wasted. One-third of these applicants would be deserving, but would receive but one-third of the attention that we are giving all our teachers.

An enrollment fee is but a guarantee of good faith on the part of the applicant, without which no strong Agency can risk the time necessary to investigate the applicant's merits. This guarantee is as important to the members of an Agency as it is to the Agency.
